Local, state officials present Environment tackled in heavily attended meeting

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

WILMINGTON In an effort to address the many environmental issues in Wilmington, several committees were formed to work with state and federal officials. These local environmental groups, state officials, and representatives from the Department of Public Health (DPH), the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) met at the Wilmington Town Hall on Thursday, November 30 to discuss their progress.

"[Our concerns] are for the protection of the environment to ensure the health of the residents of Wilmington," said Kathy Barry, the organizer of the groups. She said that there is growing concern about the damage caused by contamination from companies in the community. "In order to have a comprehensive plan for environmental improvement, we need local involvement. A very important role remains unfulfilled, and that is the role of the local departments and local officials."

Ms. Barry indicated that the town needs a full-time environmental engineer who will work with officials and the community on the contamination issues in the town.

• OLIN CHEMICAL UPDATE. Chris Pyott from the DEP updated the community on three aspects of the projects at the facility.

"The first is on-property remediation, which has been occurring all summer at a fast pace," Mr. Pyott said.

Drum and debris were excavated from the site. Of the total of 4,300 cubic yards that were excavated, 400 were hazardous wastes and 164 were overpacks, which are special containers for intact drums or debris. The west, south and central pond ditch sites were excavated and the contaminated sediment was prepared for bio-remediation at another location on-site. A slurry wall was installed to contain the more aqueous area of contamination during that clean-up effort.

"Some significant advances have been ongoing to improve the quality of the property," said Mr. Pyott. Secondly, he added that a comprehensive sampling round was completed on October 25th to check the groundwater at the Maple Meadow Brook aquifer.

"The main concern of the DEP and the town is the water supply," said Mr. Pyott. Two of the town's supply wells, Chestnut Street and

Retirement dinner to honor Chief Stewart

By AMY HELENE

WILMINGTON The new year is approaching and with it comes new experiences. For Wilmington Police Chief Bobby N. Stewart, the year 2001 will mean new changes.

Chief Stewart will retire from the Wilmington Police Department after serving the citizens of the community for twenty-one years. To celebrate his many years on the force, his fellow law enforcers at the department are sponsoring a retirement dinner at the Casa Di Fior. The party, which will be held on Friday, January 12, will begin at 6 p.m. and conclude at 11:30.

Chief Stewart will be honored with presentations from the state legislature, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association and other notable guests. He will also receive his retirement badge.

The Master of Ceremonies for the night will be Town Manager Michael Cairra.

Deputy Nally, who will become the police department's new chief, is helping to coordinate the special event. He says that this retirement dinner will be a time to recognize Chief Stewart's leadership.

"There are a lot of people who want to express their well-wishes for him," Nally explained. "He has touched a lot of lives through his job and through the nature of the business."

Chief Stewart, who was unavailable for an interview, was instrumental in developing Wilmington's Community Policing Program. He helped find grants in order to establish this successful program in the community. The program is known

Remembering Worcester's heroic firefighters

The following article is a memoir of sorts, honoring the six firefighters who died in the Worcester fire one year ago this week and recounting the role of the Wilmington Fire Department in the efforts to bring safety, comfort and closure to the tragedy. At the writer's request, it was agreed that this feature story would be published anonymously.

WILMINGTON Last Sunday marked the first anniversary of the Worcester Cold Storage Fire that took the lives of six brave firefighters. Friday, December 3, 1999 is etched in the memory of firefighters around the world as the day time stopped and a search began for six of their brothers. When the alarm sounded at 6:13 p.m. in Worcester fire stations, the fates of Paul Brotherton, Jerry Lucey, Tom Spencer, Jay Lyons, Joe McGuirk and Tim Jackson were sealed. They answered their last alarm. This fire would impact the lives of many people, and Wilmington's firefighters were no exception. The involvement of the Wilmington Fire Department in the City of Worcester was immense, multifaceted and continuous to this day.

On the night of December 3, 1999, the first of many Wilmington firefighters, who is a member of the State Fire Marshall's Critical Incident Stress Team (C.I.S.T.), arrived in Worcester shortly after 9 p.m. He was assigned to the fireground. Later, his role would include assisting in the planning and the logistics for the memorial service and six funerals. The C.I.S.T. remained in Worcester until December 23, and it continues today to serve the Worcester Fire Department with a Critical Incident Stress Management program under the guidance of Dr. Hayden Duggan.

During the two weeks of searching and funerals, Wilmington Ladder 1 responded to the City of Worcester three times as part of the Massachusetts Fire Task Force. Ladder 1, with its crew of a lieutenant and two firefighters, covered the Park Avenue Central Division and Providence Street (a.k.a., "The Rock") fire stations. Ladder 1's crew also assisted in the search and recovery operations at the scene of the fire. Chief Dan Stewart responded to the fire in Worcester as part of the District 6 Hazardous Materials Response Unit, which served in various capacities in supporting the Command Staff and operations at the scene.

The Wilmington Fire Department Honor Guard serves the Professional Fire Fighters of Massachusetts as the State Union's Honor Guard, under the direction and coordination of Wilmington Firefighter George Driscoll. The Honor Guard went to Worcester a total of eight times in the fourteen days surrounding the blaze. They represented the state with distinction at all six funerals and in the enormous memorial service that was held on December 9. On Saturday, December 11, after marching in Timothy Jackson's

SANTA ALWAYS HAS TIME FOR WILMINGTON. Sure, he's busy, rounding up the gifts, loading up his sleigh, and figuring out who's been naughty or nice. Nonetheless, Santa still had plenty of time on the night of Saturday, December 2 to stop by Wilmington Town Common and visit all of the little ones there. Claus arrived at the scene on a fire engine and was escorted through the crowd by Wilmington Minutemen. (Maureen Lamoureux photo)

Ho Ho Ho!

Santa flicks "on" switch at Christmas tree lighting

By AMY WONG

WILMINGTON Anticipation ran high as once again the Wilmington community gathered on the Town Common for the annual tree lighting ceremony on the night of Saturday night, December 2.

In spite of the frigid temperatures, the common was crowded with families, the children keeping warm by excitedly running around in games of chase.

The centerpiece of the festivities was watching the ice sculpting. Eric Fontecchio, a professional sculptor from the Brookline Ice Company, transformed two 300-pound blocks of ice into a benevolent angel, using a chainsaw, with a special blade for ice, and assorted chisels.

Fontecchio, of Lincoln, Rhode Island, has been ice sculpting for 16 years, although he has been sculpting in other venues since he was a kid.

"My mother said I always had a pencil in my hand, always drawing," says Fontecchio. "This ice sculpting is just drawing in three dimensions."

Fontecchio has come to Wilmington for the last four holiday seasons to carve his creations, saying that he gets most of his ideas from nature. Last year, he carved the lion and the lamb from the peaceable kingdom.

Fontecchio can also always be found at Boston's First Night celebration, carving in front of the Trinity Church in Copley Square.

The Wilmington 4th of July Committee, along with the Council of Churches, the Wilmington Community Fund and Rotary, sponsors the ice sculpture. The 4th of July Committee and the Council of Churches sponsor the tree lighting.

After the first year, the ice sculpture got so popular that the town brought in the hay ride. Considering the response of the public and how popular the hay ride was, a second wagon was brought in. Cookies and hot chocolate were available at the festivities until they ran out.

Santa Claus arrived at approximately 7 p.m. and flicked the switch for the Christmas lights on the common. From there, he went to the 4th of July Headquarters on Middlesex Avenue, where he had his picture taken with kids.

"It's a wonderful event," says Stew Ring, a member of the 4th of July Committee. "The town seems to enjoy it. We have great cooperation from the town too. Everyone pitches in and helps."

Glo-sticks were given out to the kids, who happily tossed them and looped them. In fact, the kids seemed to enjoy the glo-sticks more than anything else.

John Cave, from Krochmal Farms in Tewksbury, steered one of the two wagons giving hay rides. Belgian horses named Katy, Mac, Tom and Joe led the way.

The Wilmington Community Fund was present at the Town Common, selling its Wilmington 2000 Christmas ornaments, which were a pair of pewter bells with pinecones. Proceeds from the ornaments will fund the food commissary and emergency oil help for citizens throughout the year. Remaining ornaments can be bought on Saturday mornings between 10 a.m. and 12 p.m. at the food commissary at the old Swain School on Middlesex Avenue.

Representatives from the Wilmington-Tewksbury United States Marine Corp League were at the tree-lighting ceremony, as well,

DiCenso Trust awarded $16M

By STAFF REPORTS

WILMINGTON Riemer & Braunstein LLP, one of the region's premiere law firms, has reported that a Middlesex County Superior Court jury has awarded $16 million in damages against Bayer Corp. and Agfa for releasing toxic chemicals into the environment at two industrial sites in Wilmington.

The decision came after a two-week jury deliberation, according to Attorney Harold DuLong at Riemer & Braunstein.

The case was litigated by the Burlington office of the law firm.

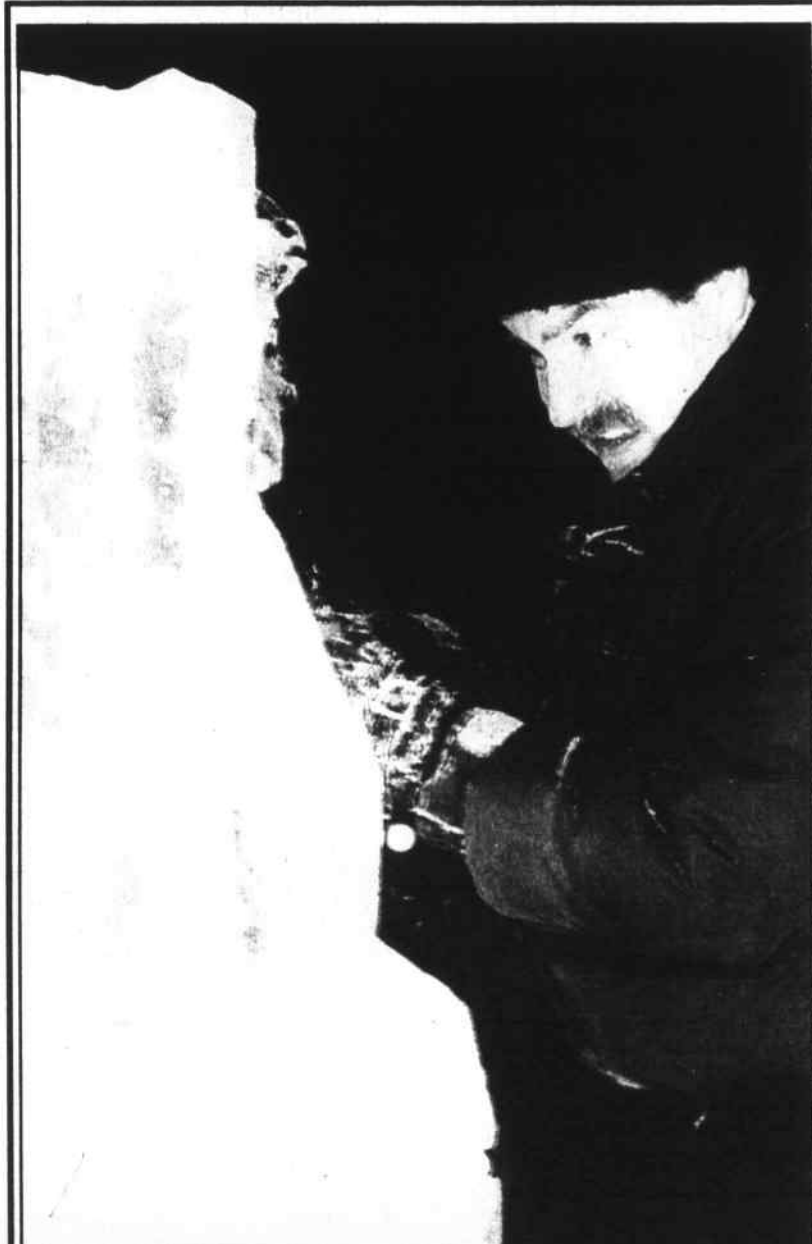

After two full weeks of deliberation, a Middlesex County Superior Court jury returned a verdict in favor of Riemer & Braunstein LLP's client, the I. Fred DiCenso Trust, against Bayer Corporation for polluting two properties at 65 and 85 Industrial Way in Wilmington. The properties consist of 25 acres owned by the I. Fred DiCenso Trust, said Peter Sutton, an attorney at Riemer & Braunstein LLP who has represented the DiCenso Trust since Mr. DiCenso's death in 1986.

The Trust was represented by the trial team of Paul Samson, Craig Ziady, and Harold DuLong, of Riemer & Braunstein LLP.

"The jury trial was a culmination of a four-year law suit, in which the Trust was seeking damages which consisted of amounts spent by the Trust to assess economic losses caused by the contamination, as well as the loss of the value of the property caused by the contamination," said Attorney DuLong.

Paul Samson, a partner at Riemer & Braunstein LLP, who has extensive experience in successful hazardous waste litigation, including other Route 128 properties, argued to the jury that Bayer's documented use of the chemical 1,1,1

Syracuse University honors Orpen

TEWKSBURY - Jaelyn Orpen of Nina Drive, Tewksbury, a senior majoring in Spanish language, literature and culture in the College of Arts and Sciences at Syracuse University, has been recognized by Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw for completing General University Honors.

Students completing General University Honors were recognized at a reception held at the Chancellor's Residence early in November.

In addition to achieving the grade point average required for Dean's List honors in their respective school or college, students who complete General University Honors have enrolled in at least four courses in Syracuse University's Honors Program and have successfully completed the freshman and sophomore Honors Program seminars. The Honors Program enhances opportunities for excellence in creative and scholarly learning and supports the academic, professional and personal growth of outstanding undergraduate students.

Officially chartered in 1870 as a private, coeducational institution of higher education, Syracuse University is a leading student centered research university. Syracuse's 13 schools and colleges share the common mission: to promote learning through teaching, research, scholarship, creative accomplishment and service while embracing the core values of quality, caring, diversity, innovation, and service. The 680-acre campus is home to more than 18,000 full and part time undergraduate and graduate students from all 50 states and 90 countries.

Free MCAS prep for students

TEWKSBURY - Tewksbury Memorial High School is offering to current ninth and tenth grade students tuition free vacation week MCAS Prep experience for students who are "at risk" to be successful as sophomores as the MCAS examinations in Mathematics and English/Language Arts become an additional standard for public school graduation.

The program will be offered at Tewksbury Memorial High School during the December vacation week (December 27 to December 29); February vacation week (February 20 to February 22); April vacation week (April 18 to April 20) in the morning from 9 to 1 p.m. for three days.

The goal of the program will be to provide clear content instruction, walk through examples, practice problems, and additional test formatted problems. Teachers will be able to provide for parent/guardians at the end of the week an assessment of each student's individual progress.

For more information and registration details, please contact the guidance office at Tewksbury Memorial High School at 978-640-7838.

LET UNCLE SAM HELP FILL YOUR TANK

American drivers experienced real sticker shock this summer as gasoline prices zoomed to more than $2 a gallon in many parts of the country. American taxpayers will face another shock at tax time: the standard mileage rate for deducting business use of a vehicle was recently lowered to 31 cents a mile—way below actual cost.

For many business drivers—most especially those who are self-employed and/or lease their cars—it's probably better to deduct actual expenses. If actual costs top company reimbursement, employees can deduct them as miscellaneous expenses.

The self-employed may claim the interest portion of car payments as well as gasoline, insurance and maintenance costs, plus depreciation, capped in '99 at $3,060. Lease payments make the calculation even easier, replacing both interest and depreciation figures. If half of total vehicle use is for business, then half of total expenses can be deducted.

Should you deduct actual costs? Let us run the numbers for you at

To our firefighters: We appreciate you

Paul Brotherton.
Jerry Lucey.
Tom Spencer.
Jay Lyons.
Joe McGuirk.
Tim Jackson.

We remember the names of these Worcester firefighters well. On Saturday, December 3, 1999, they woke up, kissed their wives and children goodbye, and left for work. These six brave men did not return to their families that night because a fatal fire in a cold storage facility stood in their way and forever blocked their journeys home.

There are not too many of us who put our lives at risk when we report to work. Indeed, the most dangerous part of the newspaper business, for example, is the possibility of seeing your deadline, not your life, come and go. Several of us need to only substitute our own work responsibilities to see in plain light that the work we do and the money we make provides us with security and maybe even luxury, but not opportunities for heroism.

Firefighters, however, are those among us who choose to risk their lives, so that we may have comfort and safety in our own. As we pause this week and remember what happened one year ago, let us also remember that, under the leadership of Wilmington and Tewksbury Fire Chiefs Daniel Stewart and Thomas Ryan, our local firefighters are prepared to do for us precisely what the fallen heroes did for the citizens of Worcester. For that, we thank them.

Letters To The Editor

Student Columnist Ryan Sullivan Behind the scenes of the National Honors Society

Last May, there were thirty or so members of the Tewksbury Memorial High School chapter of the National Honor Society who left for their collegiate years. When they left, thirty members were inducted into the society in their place.

In order to be inducted into the NHS, you must maintain a G.P.A. of 3.5 or higher, contribute to your community, and demonstrate your personal character.

Mrs. Acone, the high school's British Literature teacher, has run the school's chapter of NHS like no one else could. The students, with her help, have undergone many fundraising activities for their peers. They have contributed to the town through food drives for the Tewksbury Pantry and an overcoat drive for needy families. They have held charity drives for UNICEF to help kids in need. Members of NHS also contribute to their own classmates' well-being by offering the time and energy to tutor underclassmen in need of help.

The reason that Mrs. Acone was able to do all of this is simple. She had the help of one very special student named Ellen Frank.

Ellen is the president of NHS. Her classmates can tell you that she is frequently taken out of class to help Mrs. Acone with her activities. It is a wonder how Ellen has time to play for the MVC champion field hockey team and maintain her position as Spring Track Captain.

Ellen cannot say that she has been unnoticed for all of her hard work. She recently received the 2000-2001 Scholar Award from the Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents. She is also ranked number one in her class.

Ellen has been more than just an extraordinary student and born leader. She is also a member of one of the most caring families in Tewksbury. Her mother and father both encourage her to achieve all

Congressman Tierney thanks you

To the voters of the Sixth Congressional District:

I am writing to thank all of you who took the time and made the effort to exercise your right to vote on November 7th. In particular, I wish to thank all voters who supported my re-election to Congress and those friends who worked so hard to help with the campaign effort. My supporters who checked the polls, made phone calls, drove voters to the polls, stood out for me throughout the entire campaign season, as well as those who canvassed door to door, have my deepest and most sincere appreciation for their efforts.

It is my privilege and honor to serve the constituents of the Sixth Congressional District and I look forward to continuing my work on behalf of all voters in the district, regardless of their choice on Election Day. I encourage you to seek the services of the District Congressional Office anytime you need my assistance. My staff and I are here to serve you.

Sincerely,
John F. Tierney

DAV expresses gratitude for the faith and confidence in Chapter 110

Dear Editor:

This is a letter of gratitude. It salutes the many disabled veterans, their friends and concerned citizens who have expressed their unqualified support for DAV Chapter 110 during its recent conflict with the mean-spirited interests in the Disabled American Veterans hierarchy.

Politically motivated actions were taken against DAV Chapter 110 in order to embarrass the vote and judgment of disabled veterans who believe that they have the right to select their leadership without interference or meddling from the paid upper echelons of the state DAV.

To the many who had faith and confidence in Chapter 110, the membership expresses its profound gratitude. DAV Chapter 110 does have a question, however: Where does it go to get its reputation back?

Sincerely,
Richard T. Sheehan
Senior Vice Commander

Tewksbury

Homecoming's success

Dear Editor:

The Family Festival 2000 weekend celebration was a great success! It was a time for the people of Tewksbury to enjoy the company of family and friends. It was a celebration planned with the intent of very inexpensive and free entertainment and prizes for all who went, and its success depended greatly on the volunteerism and generosity of others. Many long hours and a lot of hard work are involved in the planning of such festivities. It is because of the good will of people and businesses that a celebration like this is possible.

The Tewksbury Homecoming Committee would like to thank you for your generous support of this year's Family Festival 2000.

Sincerely,
The Homecoming Committee

Can you believe that Christmas is less than three weeks away?

The Town Crier would like to invite you to submit to us a picture of your child or children, so that we may include them in a holiday pictorial that we are designing for the front page of our December edition.

We're hoping to receive 24 photos of Wilmington wee-ones and 24 photos of Tewksbury tykes. To submit a family photo for consideration, please hand them in to the Town Crier by Friday, December 15. We can be found at 104 Lowell Street in Wilmington.

And to all of you kids out there with visions of sugar plums dancing in your heads. We hear that Santa Claus reads The Town Crier, so if you sent us your letters to him, we'll print them for you.

The Cops Corner

Officer Scott A. Sencabaugh

It is that time of the year again. The holidays are upon us, and the Wilmington Police Department wants to make sure that you and your family have a happy and safe season. In this column, I want to review with you some of the ways that you can protect your home, your automobile and yourself.

Burglaries can occur any time of the year, as you know. However, burglars also know that due to holiday shopping we tend to have more electronics and jewelry and other valuables in our homes. Also, since we are shopping, they also know that we are out of homes more often and for longer periods of time.

Most criminals seek out easy targets. So what can we do to prevent breaks? Here are some pretty basic suggestions:

- Use solid, wooden doors, or doors reinforced with steel.
- Use dead bolts.
- Consider installing a peephole.
- Use window pegs. (Drill a hole into the movable part of the window through the frame and insert a peg or nail.)
- Make sure all windows are closed and locked securely.
- Do not allow shrubbery to grow over windows, walkways or doorways. They help conceal criminals as they try to break into your home.
- Use as much lighting as possible. Surround your house with floodlights.
- Put lighting on motion detectors and/or timers. This can be done inexpensively.
- Never allow strangers into your home. Do not let telephone callers know that you are home alone or that your house is empty at certain times. Remember not to give out such personal information as credit card numbers.
- Keep your personal plans to yourself. Don't even tell coworkers.
- Vary your routine - criminals do not like surprises.
- Put away ladders and other tools when not in use. You don't want to arm a burglar with the tools of his trade or a possible weapon.
- When gone for a period of time, use call-forwarding and timers for electronic appliances. Arrange for mail and newspaper collection, shoveling or mowing.
- Record all valuables, including serial numbers. This may include videotaping and photographing. Check insurance coverage and mark all of your belongings with an etching device.
- Ask neighbors to watch your property when you're gone. Offer to do the same for them.

Now that we've covered just some of the basics of home security, let's take a look at personal shopping safety.

- Store shopping bags and merchandise in the trunk of your car.
- Women should drape the strap of their pocketbook diagonally across their body.
- Avoid carrying large amounts of cash.

These are just some tips that we at the police department hope will make your holiday season less stressful. Remember that you can call us at any time to report any suspicious activity. There is no such thing as a wrong call to the police.

On behalf of everyone at the Wilmington Police Department, have a happy and safe holiday! Please do not drink and drive!

Buckley, Pearlstein now happily married

Christine Susan Buckley and Eric Max Pearlstein were married on August 26 at Kensington Congregational Church. The Reverend David J. Williamson officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Buckley of Kensington. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pearlstein of Wilmington.

The bride is a graduate of Berlin High School and Bentley College in Waltham. She is employed by Zoll Medical in Burlington. The groom is a graduate of Wilmington High School and Massachusetts College of Art in Boston. He is employed by Magnet Markers in Worcester.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Maid of honor was Carole Ann Buckley, of Pleasanton, CA, the sister-in-law of the bride;

Jennifer Chant, of Berlin; Tricia Jenkins, of Medford; Susan Prefontaine, of Indiana; and Dawn Redmond and Kimberly Redmond, of Wilmington, cousins of the groom.

Best man was Keith Pearlstein, of Wilmington, the brother of the groom. Ushers were Scott Buckley, of Pleasanton, the brother of the bride; Stuart Bloom, of Concord; Joseph Caputo, of Waltham; Jason Nevens, of Watertown; Jeffrey Surette, of Stoneham; and Steven Tucker, of Wilmington.

Following a reception at the Aqua Turf Club in Plantsville, the couple left on a wedding trip to Walt Disney World in Florida. The couple resides in Hudson, Massachusetts.

NOTE: "Happy anniversary, Harvey! I love you. Ellen."

Wilmington Memorial Library

Thanks to bank gift, new programs are on the way

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Memorial Library received an early holiday gift from Fleet Bank, Wilmington. On Wednesday, November 28, Michele Gasper, Sales and Service Manager at the Fleet Bank, Wilmington, presented Library Director, Tina Stewart with a $1,000 check. According to Ms. Gasper, Fleet Bank wanted to give a monetary gift to a nonprofit community organization that benefited the entire community through its services and programs.

Tina Stewart noted that this donation will enable the library to enhance the number and quality of special programs it can offer to children, teens and adults. Much thanks to Fleet Bank of Wilmington for this generous gift!

Holiday Decorations
The "literary snowmen" have returned for the holiday season. The Friends of the Library have brightened up the library with lovely wreaths, centerpieces, garland and the wonderful snowmen. Special thanks to Lynne Barasso and the decorating committee for their time and talent.

Thanks to the Wilmington Garden Club for the beautiful evergreen wreaths on the front of the library.

Checkout Limitations
There is usually no limit on the number of books that can be borrowed by a patron using the Wilmington Memorial Library.

However, staff may limit the number of items in a subject area that can be checked out in order to prevent depletion of one subject area by one individual. This often occurs when there is a class assignment from one of the Wilmington Public Schools where all the students in one grade have to do research on the same topic. In order to give everyone an opportunity to use the material, the librarian will put books on reference reserve for the duration of the project.

Registration for Storytime
The next preschool storytime session will run from January 3 to February 9. Registration for this session begins Monday, December 18 through Saturday, December 30. Please call the Children's Department at 658-2967 to register.

Book of the Week
Anna Quindlen, bestselling author and columnist, reflects on what it means to "get life" in A Short Guide to a Happy Life. The author inspires the reader to take a fresh look at life. She writes "the best advice I could give anyone is pretty simple - get a life. A real life, not a manic pursuit of the next promotion, the bigger paycheck, the larger house. Do you think you'd care so very much about those things if you'd developed an aneurysm one afternoon, or found a lump in your breast while in the shower?" During the sometimes stressful holiday season, this book, only 50 pages

Kaminski receives Chancellor's scholarship

TEWKSBURY- Stephen Kaminski of Starr Avenue, Tewksbury has been honored by Syracuse University where he is enrolled in the University's College of Arts and Sciences.

Kaminski received Chancellor's Scholarship an honor awarded to entering first-year and transfer students and recognize outstanding academic achievement. To receive a Chancellor's Scholarship, students must have strong academic credentials in high school, be active in extracurricular and community activities, and demonstrate good character and citizenship. Awards are as high as $6,000 per year and are renewable.

Officially chartered in 1870 as a private, coeducational institution of higher education, Syracuse University is a leading student centered research university. Syracuse's 13 schools and colleges share the common mission: to promote learning through teaching, research, scholarship, creative accomplishment and service while embracing the core values of quality, caring, diversity, innovation, and service. The 680 acre campus is home to more than 18,000 full and part time undergraduate and graduate students from all 50 states and 90 countries.

Remove snow, ice for letter carriers

WILMINGTON - Postmaster James Quinn has asked for the cooperation of postal customers to keep walkways and curbside mailboxes clear of snow and ice to ensure the safe and efficient delivery of mail this winter.

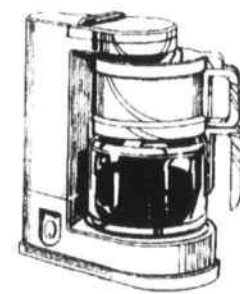

"The Postal Service treats safety and service with equal priority," the postal official said, "and we are seeking your help to ensure that you get the kind of service and you need and expect and our letter carriers are safe from the perils they face during the winter."

Letter carriers are especially vulnerable to slips, trips and falls during the winter months, the postmaster said, adding: "It is extremely important that you keep your walkways free and clear of snow and ice to help reduce the danger of a letter carrier suffering serious injury in a slipping accident.

"Your help in this regard is deeply appreciated by your letter carrier and all the many men and women who work together to make sure you receive the best possible mail delivery."

The postmaster asked residents who receive mail delivery to rural or curbside boxes to keep the approach to and exit from their mailbox clear of snow, ice, vehicles, trash cans and other objects. "This will permit the carrier to drive up to your mailbox and deposit or collect mail without leaving the vehicle. The approach to and exit from the mailbox should be cleared sufficiently on both sides to allow the carrier to drive ahead and not be required to back up after delivery," the postmaster said.

Obituaries

Alice M. Cleary ... sang in the church choir

TEWKSBURY - Alice M. (Hardy) Cleary, 74, died Saturday, December 2, 2000 at Mass. General Hospital in Boston. She was the widow of George H. Cleary.

Born in Boston December 9, 1925, she was a daughter of the late Charles O. and Lillian V. (Poor) Hardy. Mrs. Cleary was a lifelong resident of East Boston until moving to Tewksbury three months ago. She attended East Boston schools, graduating from East Boston High School with the Class of 1943.

She was a former longtime member of St. John's Episcopal Church of East Boston and in recent years attended St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Chelsea, where she sang in the church choir. Mrs. Cleary was a member of the Order of Eastern Star of Everett and enjoyed many activities, especially reading, crossword puzzles and shopping.

Mrs. Cleary is survived by three daughters, Patricia E. Takach and her husband Charles with whom she lived in Tewksbury, Linda S. Cleary of Weymouth and Sandra L. Cleary of Winthrop; her daughter-in-law, Donna (Alexander) Cleary of Lynnfield; two sisters, Barbara (Hardy) Cleary and her husband John of Peabody and Evelyn (Hardy) Burton and her husband Stanley of Natick; six grandchildren, Deborah, Eric, Jennifer and Jonathan Takach and Douglas and Alexandra Cleary; many nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Cleary was also the mother of the late Stephen G. Cleary.

Funeral services were scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday at the Farmer & Dee Funeral Home, 16 Lee St., Tewksbury, followed by a funeral service at the Tewksbury Congregational Church and burial at Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions to the Arthritis Foundation, 29 Crafts St., Newton, MA 02150 will be appreciated.

Leo J. Cullinan ... served in Vietnam

TEWKSBURY - Leo J. Cullinan, Jr., died Friday, November 17, 2000 in Lowell. Born in Lowell, he was a son of Leo J. Cullinan, Sr. of Londonderry, N.H. and Dorothy M. Cullinan of Tewksbury.

Mr. Cullinan was a lifelong resident of Tewksbury until recently moving to Lowell. He was educated at the former Sacred Heart School of Andover and later attended Tewksbury Memorial High School. He served his country with the U.S. Marine Corps, during the Vietnam Era. He was awarded several decorations, including two Purple Hearts for injuries received in the Quang Nam Province of Vietnam during a search and clear operation; the National Defense Service Medal, the Combat Action Ribbon, the Vietnam Service Medal with one star, the Vietnam Campaign Medal with device and the Rifle Expert Badge. He was honorably discharged with the rank of lance corporal on November 22, 1969.

Prior to his illness, he was employed as a construction worker and mechanic by several area construction companies. In earlier years, he was employed as a tree climber with the Tewksbury Tree Department.

Mr. Cullinan was a member of the American Legion Post #27, Londonderry, N.H.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his daughter, Rachel Lee Almeida and her husband Paul of Revere; two brothers, Walter A. "Chucky" Cullinan of Salem, N.H. and Paul D. Cullinan of Lowell; two sisters, Dorothy M. Moran and her husband George of Andover and Kathaleen F. Cullinan of Lowell; two grandchildren, Paul Almeida, 10 and Vanessa Almeida, seven both of Revere. Many nieces and nephews also survive.

At the request of the family there were no calling hours. Funeral services were private. Memorial contributions to the American Heart Association, 20 Speen St., Framingham, MA 01701 will be appreciated. Arrangements were under the direction of Farmer & Dee Funeral Home, 16 Lee St., Tewksbury.

George A. Doulis

... served in the United States Army

TEWKSBURY - George A. Doulis, 51, died Tuesday night, November 28, 2000 at Tewksbury Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Born in Sparta, Greece, September 10, 1949, he was a son of Anastasios and Marina (Tsounis) Doulis of Wakefield. His family emigrated to the U.S. when he was seven years old and settled into the Malden area.

He graduated from Malden High School and entered the U.S. Army during the Vietnam era. He was assigned to Europe where an accident caused permanent disability. Prior to his disability he worked as an automobile mechanic. He was a member of the Greek Orthodox Church.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother and sister-in-law, Kosta and Rita (DeLuca) Doulis of Wakefield, one nephew, Andrew Doulis, one niece, Stephanie Doulis, an uncle George Doulis of Melrose and several aunts and uncles in Greece.

A Greek Orthodox Mass of the Resurrection was held Friday morning in the Events Room at Tewksbury Hospital. Burial followed in Forest Glade Cemetery, Wakefield. Arrangements were under the direction of Tewksbury Funeral Home.

MARCHING TO A DIFFERENT BEAT

Jazz funerals in New Orleans, a curious mix of solemnity and exuberance, are an example of cultural differentiation of a universal event. Traditionally, the band meets at the church or funeral home and, after the service, leads the procession slowly through the neighborhood. The mood is generally somber and the musicians indulge in virtually no improvisation. At the cemetery, after the interment ceremony, the band leads the procession from the gravesite without playing. At the respectful distance from the site, the lead trumpeter sounds two preparatory notes to alert fellow musicians. Then, the drummers begin to play the "second line beat." Solemnity is now shed in favor of more lively music, and something bordering on a public celebration ensues.

For some, death is a time of quiet reflection, while others find comfort in more lively ways, but we all must deal with it in some way at some time. At Farmer & Dee Funeral Home, we are always available for consultation and questions of any kind. We consider pre-arrangement to be a loving act, and it also gives the family a chance to have some input in making these important plans.

Environment tackled in heavily attended meeting

Butters Row, and two other areas were sampled and tested for every known chemical compound. He said it was part of a concentrated effort to look at the aquifer.

Third of all, Mr. Pyott said that DEP required Olin Corporation to complete a focused feasibility study, which will define the full extent of the contamination. The study and its review will be completed in January. When the study and data are in, a remedial action plan will be developed.

• WATER SYSTEM UPDATE. Michael Woods, Wilmington's Water Superintendent, said that the water department has been proactive in addressing the problem of nitrates in the water system. He said that although the new equipment has reduced those compounds to well below acceptable levels, it has been relatively unsuccessful in eliminating the ammonia spikes. He also said that the town tests the water frequently, and he has not seen anything that would cause any adverse health problems to anyone.

Mr. Woods said that the town needs to look at ways to reduce water consumption, especially during the summer. A draft of the water conservation plan, which will address industry's inefficient use of water, is in progress. He said that the town is also looking into other specialized equipment and an alternative water supply from the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority.

• KELLY HILL AREA. "Basically, the [DPH] is evaluating and doing an investigation of childhood cancers in the town of Wilmington," Theresa Cassidy, of the DPH, said. She added that although the main focus is in the Kelly Hill area, the DPH is aware of the other environmental concerns of the community. The cancer study encompasses the entire town.

Ms. Cassidy said that there has been an increase in the number of childhood cancers in Wilmington since 1990. The DPH is concerned with four types of cancers: leukemia, brain cancer, Hodgkins Lymphoma and nonHodgkins lymphoma. Data has been collected from several sources, including hospital databases and the Massachusetts Cancer Registry. A total of 13 children from 1987 through 2000 have been diagnosed with cancer. Of the 13, seven have been diagnosed in the last four years.

"This is higher than what we would expect," said Ms. Cassidy. The data they have collected to date is incomplete, which makes speculation about the results premature. She said that the incidents of childhood cancers seem to be in the Kelly Hill area, but that the investigation only began in March and is still in its preliminary stages. In addition, the data will need to be reviewed by several boards and the DPH before any conclusion is released.

• MAPLE MEADOW LANDFILL.

Mike Rostkowski and Dan Duffy, both from Camp, Dresser & McKee, addressed concerns about the landfill. Mr. Rostkowski said that there is currently an emergency investigation happening at the site to identify more unearthed drums.

Mr. Duffy said that the waste extends to at least 30 feet below the surface. An electromagnetic survey of the area has been done to determine potential areas of investigation. Seventy-five test pits were dug based on the results. Two areas of buried drums have been discovered but were determined to have no immediate health threat.

He said that the next step in the process is to determine the extent of the waste, which appears to extend beyond the original plan. Groundwater monitoring wells were installed and sampling is being done. A comprehensive site assessment and a health risk assessment will be done. The installation of more monitoring wells and additional water sampling is planned for early spring.

• ROCCO LANDFILL/MACDONALD ROAD. Gary Lipson, of the EPA, discussed their progress. Drums were identified on two properties, one at Krochmal Farm and the other at the MacDonald Road site in Wilmington.

At Rocco's, he said that the excavation has been completed. Thirteen thousand cubic yards of soil have been excavated and a smaller pile of dirt and debris has been compiled. The soil, which has been determined to be nonhazardous according to EPA standards, will be removed this month, weather permitting. The dirt and debris pile is scheduled for removal in the spring. Three hundred overpack drums and 100 drum shells have been piled. The work continues. This site is on the National Priorities List to be formally made a superfund site. The determination should be made in the first quarter of 2001.

At Krochmal Farm, more than 1,000 pounds of soil and approximately 50 drums have been removed. Residual contamination was found and will be removed.

At MacDonald Road, all that remains under EPA involvement is a final report from the contractor. Approximately 1,100 tons of soil, 180 overpack drums and 100 empty drums have been removed to date. The work will continue under DEP supervision.

For more information on this meeting or the organizations that attended it, please call Judy Barber at DEP (978) 6617676 or Kathy Barry at (978) 6584725.

Remembering Worcester's firefighters

funeral, they returned to Wilmington, changed from their dress uniforms into their work clothes, picked up their fire gear, and went back to assist in the search for the last firefighter. That night, Wilmington's firefighters stood silently with their flags and rifles atop Worcester Ladder 2 and served the Honor Guard at the end of recovery operations as Paul Brotherton was removed from the building.

A great deal of teamwork was necessary for the Wilmington Fire Department to play such a large role in the operations in Worcester. With the cooperation and understanding of Fire Chief Dan Stewart and Town Manager Michael Cairn, the Wilmington firefighter assigned to the Critical Incident Stress Team was able to be in Worcester every day for the three weeks following the fire. Deputy Chief Edward Bradbury covered that shift. Members of the Wilmington Fire Department who did not go covered the shifts of others, so that they could serve in Worcester. The outpouring of support from the people in Wilmington will not be forgotten, either. And lastly, but most importantly, the families of the Wilmington firefighters demonstrated great devotion and support during the 1999 holiday season as those men aided their brothers in Worcester.

Since last December, one or more of the Wilmington firefighters have been to Worcester many times. Friendships that existed before the fire have grown closer, and new friendships have begun. On March 12, 2000, the Honor Guard marched alongside the Worcester Honor Guard in Worcester's St. Patrick's Day Parade. The following week, they marched in South Boston. In September, six Wilmington firefighters traveled across the country to Colorado Springs for the International Association of Firefighters' Fallen Fire Fighter Memorial. They represented the Professional Fire Fighters of Massachusetts and had the honor and privilege of carrying the Worcester Fire Fighters' flag during the service. One member of the group was chosen to present a flag to a widow from the City of Woburn. It was a solemn and moving ceremony that they will never forget. In October, the Honor Guard once again served in Worcester at the Massachusetts Firefighter of the Year Ceremonies at Mechanic Hall. They held a place of honor at the front of the auditorium where the six Worcester Firefighters were posthumously awarded the state's highest medal for Bravery and Valor.

The past year has been filled with much reflection on those fourteen days in December of 1999. The Wilmington Fire Department marked the anniversary by sounding a fire alarm signal and the air horns atop the apparatus six times, followed by a moment of silence. A "W6" symbol is worn on fire helmets in memory of the men who lost their lives. Plans are being discussed about building a fitting memorial to firefighters Paul Brotherton, Jerry Lucey, Tim Jackson and Joe McGuirk, as well as to Lieutenants Jay Lyons and Tom Spencer. May they never be forgotten.

Santa flicks "on" switch collecting "Toys for Tots" for the kids in Wilmington. This past weekend marked the fourth year in a row that the league provided its charity to the holiday fun. The league worked in collaboration with the Wilmington Fire Department. The toys that were donated last weekend will be brought to the fire department, where the firefighters and their spouses will wrap them. They have a list of all of the families in town who can benefit from such gifts. (Looking beyond last weekend's ceremonies, toys can still be brought and donated at the fire department on Church Street any time between now and December 23.)

The Methodist Church Choir led the crowd in a sing-along of holiday classics.

Marjorie Road residents Ron Gould, his three-year-old daughter, Alex, and his six-year-old son, Ryan, were kept warm from the cold by their enthusiasm and quest for fun.

"One of our neighbors told us about the hayride," said Gould. "We hope to take a ride and stay for the tree-lighting, that is if everybody doesn't freeze beforehand."

Bob and Margo Dunning, who brought their daughters April and Sally, did go on the hayride and loved every minute of it.

Says the Dunnings, "We loved the hayride. We sang Christmas songs, and we were asked what we wanted for Christmas."

The Dunning kids named a list of toys that they hope to find underneath the tree. What did their parents ask for? The one thing needed to pay for those toys -- money, naturally.

When Santa Claus arrived, it was courtesy of the Wilmington Fire Department, who escorted the jolly fat man to the scene on one of its trucks.

The Wilmington Minutemen held lanterns and lit Santa's way through the crowd to the gazebo on the common. Once there, Santa led the countdown to the tree lighting. When the big moment finally arrived at approximately 7:30 p.m., Santa flicked a switch and magically turned all of the common into a colorful display of lights.

DiCenso Trust

Trichlorethane, known otherwise as "TCA," caused permanent damage to the properties and also caused serious economic harm, including the inability to refinance the properties, lost rents, and the inability to utilize the property at its highest and best use. After four years of denial, on the day after the jury was impeached, Bayer, for the first time, admitted liability and negligence and also admitted responsibility for approximately $1 million of the Trust's environmental costs. Bayer did, though, contest the alleged permanent damage to the property.

The jury was not persuaded by Bayer's arguments and returned a verdict of almost $16 million, with respect to the economic damage and property damage. In addition to the $1 million agreed to by Bayer, the jury also recommended to the court that Bayer be found responsible for violations on General laws, Chapter 93A, Section 11, for unfair or deceptive acts or practices and found damages for the 93A violation of $5 million.

In addition, Bayer is still required to hear all future clean-up costs for both properties, which is estimated to be several million additional dollars. Also, Attorney Samson is requesting the court to award the Trust all of its legal fees for the four years that it took to battle Bayer.

Although the testimony suggested that the properties were contaminated with many hundreds of gallons of this hazardous waste, no evidence was presented that the contamination has yet reached any drinking water supplies or residential neighborhoods.

Remembrance service

BURLINGTON - Members of the community are invited to lighten their emotional load this holiday time at our Service of Remembrance and Light to be held on Sunday, December 10 at 4 p.m.

The Rev. Roderick MacDonald and members of the Presbyterian Church of Burlington welcome you to a service of words, music and readings, prayers and candle lighting as a way to acknowledge and share the pain that some of us bring to his Holiday season.

This time of year with the focus on family, joy, giving and "good cheer" can be difficult for those of us who have experienced the loss of loved ones and other struggles in our lives. This will be an open service of sharing and acknowledging the darkness and light in our lives.

Please join us to help bring some of the light back into the season and into our lives. The Church is located at 335 Cambridge Street (Route 3A), Burlington, near the intersection of Cambridge Street and Wilmington Road (Route 62). The Church office number is 781-272-9190.

Post Office says: Mail early

WILMINGTON - Postmaster James Quinn has offered two words of advice to customers: "Mail Early."

"The holidays are here, and we're here to make sure mail flies like an eagle and is delivered on time. Just help us by mailing early," Quinn said.

He offered several mailing tips to help make it possible for the U.S. Postal Service to deliver the billions of cards and parcels that are mailed during the holiday season.

First and foremost, the postmaster said, write, type or print the complete address neatly and always use a complete return address.

"Don't let incorrect ZIP Code delay delivery of cards and letters," he said, noting local post offices and the Postal Service web site (www.usps.com) offer ZIP Code information.

The postmaster said persons should select a box that's strong enough to protect the contents and space should be left for cushioning inside the carton. Shredded or rolled newspaper, bubble wrap or Styrofoam peanuts make good padding, he said. Before the package is sealed with tape designed for shipping, he said, a return address should be placed inside.

The postmaster said glass and fragile hollow items like vases should be carefully packed in newspaper to avoid damage due to shock. When mailing framed photographs, take the glass out of the frame and wrap it separately, he said.

Batteries should be removed from toys. All packages weighing one pound or more must be taken into the post office for mailing, he said.

"With your help we can make this a most enjoyable Christmas," he said.

Orpen honored

TEWKSBURY - Jaclyn Orpen of Nina Drive, Tewksbury, a senior majoring in Spanish language, literature and culture in the College of Arts and Sciences at Syracuse University, has been recognized by Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw for completing General University Honors.

Students completing General University Honors were recognized at a reception held at the Chancellor's Residence early in November.

In addition to achieving the grade point average required for Dean's List honors in their respective school or college, students who complete General University Honors have enrolled in at least four courses in Syracuse University's Honors Program and have successfully completed the freshman and sophomore Honors Program seminars. The Honors Program enhances opportunities for excellence in creative and scholarly learning and supports the academic, professional and personal growth of outstanding undergraduate students.

WHS Boys' Hoop Preview

Swiza, "D" could make things fun

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Six years ago Wilmington High boys' basketball coach Jim McCune sat in the stands at Alumni Stadium watching a Wildcat football game. On that Saturday afternoon, McCune's heart really ached. His sophomore star basketball player at the time, Rich Barden, had just given the news to McCune that he and his family were moving to Methuen.

Barden ended his last two years at Methuen as a tremendous player in the MVC. He is now a senior at Merrimack College, playing pretty well with ten points in last week's game.

About three weeks ago, McCune and the program finally are able to make up for Barden's absence. The team received a transfer from Omaha, Nebraska, a 6-2, junior point guard who has been described as a legitimate collegiate prospect. The addition of him, along with Scott Swiezynski - who averaged over 20 points last season and has already signed for a full scholarship to play for St. Michael's College, a division 2 program - and senior veterans Tim Riley and Josh Howlett could make this team into a serious contender.

Valence Nwachukwu, or as he calls himself "D", played for Omaha North High of Omaha, Nebraska last year. He also played a lot of AAU ball, like Swiezynski has, and one report is that he scored 30 points against a team from North Carolina. Now whether or not this kid is the next Scott Hazelton or Tom McLaughlin or even Scott Swiezynski remains to be seen, but right now his addition is on the backburner.

"He suffered an ankle sprain the first day of practice," said McCune. [On Monday] he came back and felt pretty good. We have a scrimmage [on Tuesday] and we are going to hold him for precautionary reasons, but we hope he'll be ready for Friday's jamboree [at Tewksbury High, 7:15 pm against Billerica]."

With his ankle injury, "D" and the rest of the team are a few steps back from where they would like to be right now. McCune said the team really hasn't played with one another yet, while, their defense is well short of where McCune would like it to be right now. But if and when the team can gel and the chemistry starts to mix, this team has the potential of doing things that it's never done before.

"I know his addition with certainly change everyone else's expectations of us," said McCune. "I told Valence when he got here that we were going to be a good team. And now that he's here, we could really do something. I think we're going to get a lot of hype for the major [Boston] papers. But we can't get too ahead of ourselves. Our only goal is the game in front of us which is next Tuesday [Dec 12 at home vs Amesbury, 7:30 pm]. As of right now we have a long way to go."

Nwachukwu moved from Nebraska to Woburn and attended Woburn High in the early months of this school year. He then moved here to Wilmington several weeks ago and once he gets healthy he'll be set to help the Wildcats improve on its 12-8 season from a season ago which included a first round state tournament win over Savio Prep and then a second round loss to Watertown, who went to the Fleet Center and played in the north sectional final against Newburyport.

"It's hard to judge right now because of his injury," said McCune. "But from what I've seen thus far and from what I've heard he's a very, very good player. He's bright, he's intelligent and he really knows the game. He's an excellent shooter, and he is fundamentally very strong. He's a big kid and once he gets healthy he'll be our starting point guard."

Obviously if Nwachukwu can carry out his reputation, the pressure on Swiezynski will certainly decrease. Swiza has been the team's go-to player for the last several years. He's a dynamic player, one who is terrific to watch play, and certainly an awesome player to have on a team. He is a 6-6 forward/guard, who'll probably play the 3. He can post up, he can nail the jump shot, he can hit the three-pointer and he can rebound. As McCune calls him, "he's one of the top twenty players in the entire state" and that is evident with his full scholarship to St. Michael's.

The potential of having Swiezynski and Nwachukwu averaging 25 points a game is certainly very appealing. And the rest of the team is pretty good as well. Joining Swiza as tri-captains will be Josh Howlett, a 6-4, center, and Tim Riley, who'll be moved from the 4-spot from last year to the 2-spot. Howlett, McCune says, is expected to have a huge breakout season, but he has to stay out of foul trouble. Riley is a tremendous defensive player, a tremendous hustler and McCune thinks he'll be able to put the ball in the net more often this season.

The fifth starter, if Nwachukwu is healthy to go, will be sophomore Pat Taylor, a 6-3, forward, who'll play the four spot.

"Pat is an outstanding offensive player," said McCune. "If we can get him to play some defense he'll be a player."

Of the starting five players, Wilmington is very big in size. They have a lot of offensive potential, but they need to sure up their defense pretty quickly.

"We're going to continue with the full court press and go get people," said McCune. "We've been pretty successful doing that over the last 12 years here and there's no reason why we'll change this season. We have the athletes who can do it. We're hoping to keep teams under 50 points and when we do that we are pretty tough to beat."

McCune agreed that Swiezynski probably won't be double covered this year with the new addition and the team probably won't see many "Box-and-1" schemes, but may see some "Triangle-and-2" schemes.

"Right now we have some concerns," said McCune. "I wish we were bigger [in size] off the bench, none of the kids off the bench are six feet. But we're going to have to utilize what we have on our bench which is athletic kids, some who can shoot the three and some who are pretty good at pressing and going up and down the court."

If Nwachukwu isn't ready for next Tuesday's season and home opener, McCune is pretty confident that sophomore Craig Osgood and junior Dave Aronofsky can do a fine job as the point guard.

"We like both Craig and Dave a lot, we like what the two of them can do," said McCune. "But they are a little inexperienced. The addition of Valence will give them a chance to better understand the system and get some experience instead of being thrown into the fire."

Besides Osgood and Aronofsky, junior Mike Herra and sophomore Michael Jordan will certainly be in the mix. Jordan can shoot and he can shoot the three with the best of them. He has about five minutes of varsity playing time under his belt, but he is a very smooth shooter who can bury it. Herra is a very tough, fast player who'll see time at guard. Also on the team will be seniors Steve Brown, who is back after three years of countless number of surgeries to his leg, and Dan Menezes. Juniors John Ferrari, Warren Cormier and Chris Derian will also look to help out.

Wilmington will probably be an underdog in the Cape Ann League behind Hamilton-Wenham. North Andover and Masconomet will be in the mix as well in the large school, while, Newburyport and Triton should be solid in the middle tier, and Lynnfield and Georgetown in the third division.

Besides some tough league competition, Wilmington has non-league games against Andover and Tewksbury, and then the annual Christ-mas Tournament with Whittier Tech in the first game, and either Tewksbury or Burlington in the second.

Girls Hoop hoping height, athletes will take over

After losing six 4-year players, it'll be considered to be a rebuilding season for the Wilmington High girls' basketball team. But with a handful of very good athletes who are all in the reign of 5-11 to 6-0 tall, the Lady Wildcats can certainly compete in the Cape Ann League.

So one would think? "It'll be a rebuilding year but I think we'll do alright," said interim coach Bob Gillis, an assistant for the last five years who is taking over for Beth Livermore who took a maternity leave of absence. "We lost a lot from last year. We won't have a Meredith Cipriani this year, but we have a tough group of athletes who are in great shape. We're hoping they can step it up."

Wilmington did lose Cipriani, the 6-3 center who averaged about 15 points and 15 rebounds a game. The team also lost senior speedsters Kristen Kacamburas and Lindsey Bruno, who were both very tough defenders. Gillis hopes this year's group which centers around many athletes who are for the most part inexperienced, can replace the tenacious efforts left by last year's seniors which lost in the first round of the state tournament to Triton.

"Beth and I worked pretty well together," said Gillis. "We have a lot of the same tendencies, but she focused a bit on offense, where I'll concentrate a little bit more on defense. Beth was a good sound coach - it's just I want to focus a bit more on defense where she was a bit more offensive minded."

Gillis has six seniors on the team with four of them captains. Lori Vachon is one of the four captains and she'll be the team's point guard. "She backed up Bruno last year but played a lot of minutes," said Gillis. "She has a good handle on things. She moves well, she penetrates well and we're expecting big things from her."

Krista Wolfe, the team's center, and Caitlin Bransfield, who'll play the power forward position, certainly can play. Wolfe came off the bench last year and did well, she just needs some experience. Bransfield is a very good athlete who has suffered her share of back injuries. When she's healthy she can produce. Both of them are 6-0.

Lindsey Borsetti played a vast amount of time last year and she is a pretty good defender, as well as a very good athlete. Colleen Cahill, who is another captain with Wolfe, Bransfield and Vachon, has also seen a lot of action and she's a pretty good athlete herself but she's currently on the IR with an ankle injury.

Junior Kristen Sauve is by far the team's best shooter. The outside shots form the wing she is deadly on, so with the bigger girls down low, Sauve should get a lot of looks at the basket. Rounding out the team will be juniors Sheri Thresher, Kirsten Pizzotti, Lisa Antonangeli, Jenn Gillis, as well as Julie Cronin and sophomore Danielle Spry. Junior Jackie Rubino, the seventh three-sport athlete on the team is also injured.

"The difference between the starters and the substitutes is very minimal," said Gillis. "We can start anyone of those kids, so that's good in case of injuries. We have some experience but not really a lot of varsity experience. We plan on running around crazy, a lot of in your face play, run some traps and we hope to put the ball in the hole."

The girls will open their season next Tuesday at 6 pm at WHS against Amesbury as the first game of a doubleheader with the boys following.

French, others honored by League

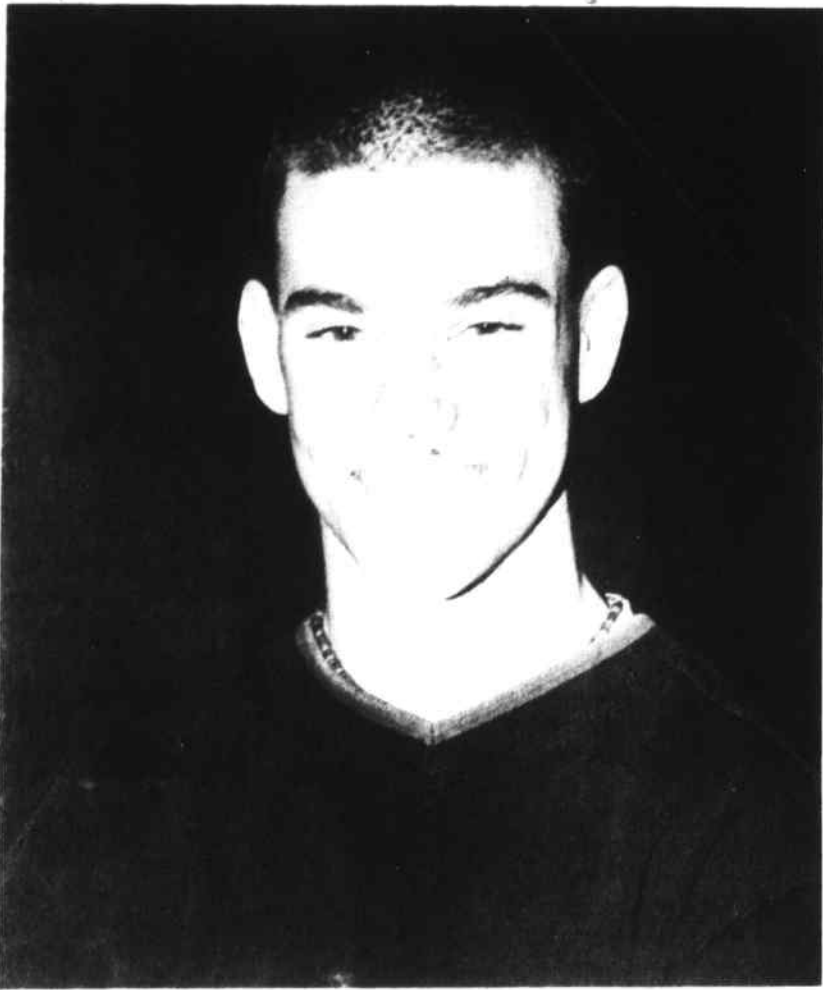

The Cape Ann League recently voted for its first team and honorable mention football squads. Wilmington had seven players recognized on the first team, including Bobby French being named the Cape Ann League Player of the Year.

Also being named to the all-league team were: (Defense) Jim Fennelly (linebacker), Andrew Campbell (defensive lineman), Josh Howlett (defensive lineman) and Josh Hiltz (defensive back); (Offense) Bobby French (running back), Justin Cammarata (offensive lineman) and Rob Garrett (offensive lineman).

As for the honorable mentions (no second team in the CAL), Mark Jepson (running back), Joe Ranno (defensive lineman), David Trueira (wide receiver) and Andrew Hackett (tight end) were also honored.

Tim Riley

Town Crier Male Athlete of the Year

Tim Riley

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

He's the basketball player who guards the opposing team's best player. He's the soccer player who is the last defender before the goalie. And he's been the tennis team's number one singles player who faces the opposing team's top gun.

And not only did Tim Riley be able to shut down the likes of Roger Brasil, Harley Davis and Brian Sullivan on the basketball floor, but he plays the game the way it's suppose to be played. He's an incredulous hard worker, fascinating player to watch because of his hard-nosed get everything in sight style, and he is so very, very tough both mentally and physically.

Tim Riley is the classic case of what Wilmington High sports are all about: the 'Cats might not have the individual skill that some of the Division 1 and 2 schools have. Instead, Tim like many others go on pure grit, pure tenacity, pure competitiveness, pure toughness that rarely, rarely is seen in other places.

"This kid is the most competitive player I've ever coached here in my 12 years," said basketball coach Jim McCune. "Timmy Riley is the perfect example of what a student-athlete (ranked No. 23 in his class) should be. He's an excellent student, he's a tough kid who is hard nosed, and a super, super, super athlete. He has his act together - he's a very responsible person."

And that's probably his second best sport, basketball. But it's on the basketball court where one can learn all they want about Tim Riley. He might not hit the four straight baseline jumpers, but he'll be the one who steals the ball away from the opposing team and send it up to a teammate who drains the 12 footer.

Last year in the state tournament, Riley certainly rose to the occasion. The Wildcats faced the No. 5 seed Savio Prep, who had a tradition of 16 league championships and over 600 career victories. They also had a player named Brian Sullivan who could play. Riley's job was to shut him down, which would allow Wilmington's offensive guys like Eric Swiezynski to do his thing.

In the first half, Riley had trouble with Sullivan as he had 17 points to help Savio to an one-point halftime lead. But in the second half, Sullivan had four points, all free throws, and no field goals. Swiza on the other hand, stepped up his game several notches and Wilmington knocked off a very good team in the first round of the tournament.

"I know I'm not a scoring threat," he said. "I don't score much and I don't care to either. My job is to play defense, to go after the loose balls, to rebound and basically to do the dirty work. Teams need players like Swiezynski to score 25 points a game and teams need players like me."

On top of defending Sullivan to no field goals in the second half, Riley also finished the night with 10 points and 10 rebounds.

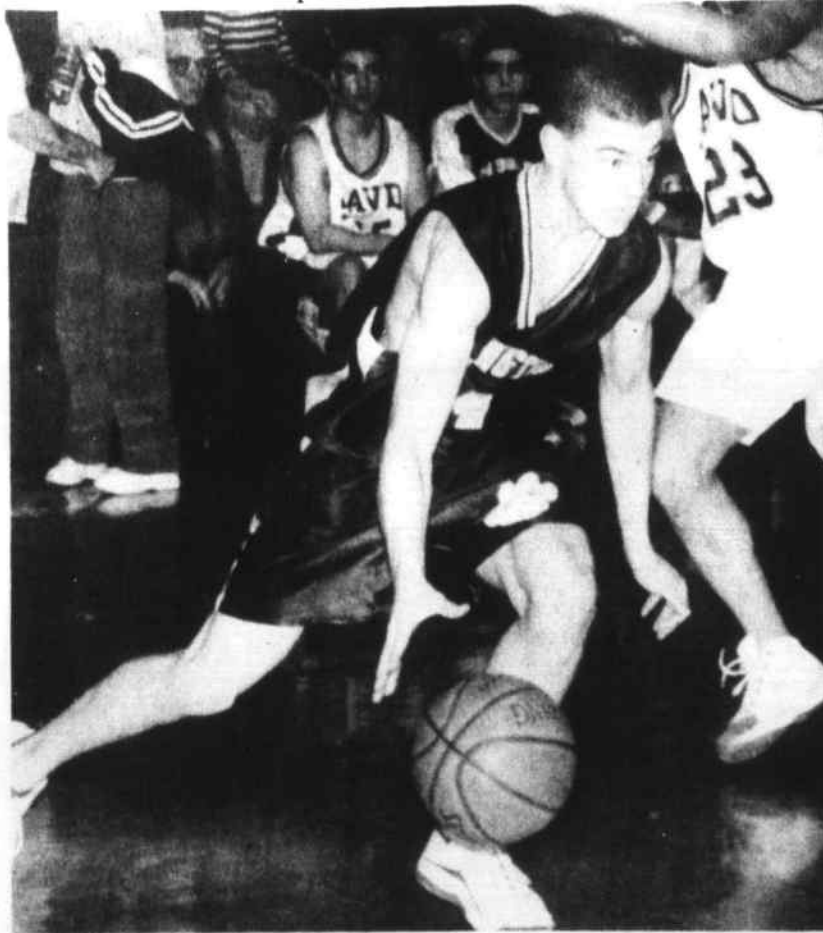

"I want him to score more this year so his senior season is a bit more fun," said McCune. "He can score. I want him to be making the 12-foot jump shot. He is such a fabulous athlete and he has such an incredible vertical leap. He is such a competitor, you can't tell the difference between a practice or a game for him."

"When he chases after loose balls he doesn't just fall on the floor - he dives and makes sure he gets everything there is. He is the nuts and bolts for us and will be the one looked to lead us. He is a fabulous athlete with an incredible vertical leap. He's very tenacious, and is such an unselfish player. To play the positions he does in basketball and soccer isn't easy at all. And those positions are the most important ones and that just shows you what type of a special kid he is."

Riley says a lot of his competitiveness comes from growing him. He and his brother Kevin of two years always battled it out. They would play with each other, against one another, but always played sports growing up.

"I was always very competitive with Kevin. Growing up that's all I wanted to do was to beat him. That was my goal - nothing else was to beat him. We'd play a lot together but we would always fight too. I guess that's why I always wanted to beat him."

Steve Scanlon Coach of the Year

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The school year didn't start off as planned for Steve Scanlon. The Wilmington High ice hockey coach and former Westford Academy boys' soccer coach had found out that his father, Dick Scanlon, the legendary WHS Boys' soccer coach, became ill on the first day of practice as his health became a concern.

Dick ended up to be OK but couldn't coach for the season. So Steve Scanlon was asked to fill in on an interim basis, not knowing at the time how long he would be there.

On top of taking over for his ill father and how uncomfortable that must have been, Steve didn't know a lot of the players. He had to adjust to them and they had to adjust to him. Steve also had taken over a team which had just three wins from a season ago, a year after winning consecutive sectional championships.

The first few weeks of the season began and the team really suffered. They were getting blown out, and lost their first three games. Over the next six games they would go even at 3-3 bringing the record to 3-6 at the halfway mark of the season.

"Maybe around the third week of the season I got settled in," said Scanlon, whose team went on to win 8-of-their-last 9 games to get into the tournament where they won in the first round and lost in the second. "Around the time we put the new style in. I wasn't looking to fill in, and I had been away from coaching soccer for a few years so I had to get back into it."

"And I didn't want to take the team under those conditions, not knowing about the health of my father. I didn't want to come in stepping on anyone's toes either. It was an awkward situation at first."

After the 0-3 start, Scanlon switched the system the team was using. Dick Scanlon was very successful using the Diamond set-up. But Steve thought after the three games that this team needed change so he inserted a system that utilized six halfbacks and just one forward.

"It was tough for everyone at the start," he said. "Everything was all at once and we were trying to get back - the new style was put in and we hit the brutal part of our schedule. We were still getting beat but we started to play really well."

And this is the part where Steve Scanlon's coaching tactics proved to turn the season, the team and the program around in one swing.

"We couldn't keep playing with what we had. We didn't have the talent and we didn't have the depth. We just couldn't sustain the pressure. I saw [the six midfielders] used once with the U.S. National team in Europe - they did it as a counter-attack force to clog up the middle, cause turnovers, move the ball quickly up the field with as many numbers as you can, get the quick goal and then it was back to defense."

"I had never used anything except the 4-4-2 until this year. I used that with the Westford teams and we were pretty successful (4 league titles, two sectional titles and a state championship). But you have to play on the strengths of your team."

Now with the system in, Scanlon had to get the entire team to believe in it, after all they were winless, and had three wins in their last 18 games dating back a year ago. And getting players to believe in a new system from an interim coach might not be that easy.

"I was willing to try anything," said Tim Riley. "I think Steve really helped us. He was a lot more demanding, we did a lot more sprinting and tougher drills and the team really responded."

Scanlon said that very easily the team could have quit and mailed in the rest of the season, with or without the new system. And getting them to stay up on themselves certainly wasn't easy.

"I purposely tried not to get on them," said Scanlon. "We were trying to get them to feel good about themselves. We were playing some pretty good soccer and were losing 1-0 and 2-0 to North Andover and Masco who are two great teams. We tried to focus on that telling them how much that had gotten better every day which they had."

"The one thing I hate is lack of effort. If you're losing you have to look at why you are losing - is it key players being out, or the lack of effort? With these guys it was never the lack of effort. Even if they were down 7-0 they went until the end. If we're overmatched we're overmatched. We never dominated any of our games. We looked to stick a

That work ethic the team installed and kept, and the strong support from Steve Scanlon and assistant coach Chip Bruce really worked. The team beat North Reading and Tewksbury to climb back to 5-6 before meeting up with Triton which became the biggest game of the season. Despite terrible rain and field conditions, Wilmington played a very hard and physical game, beating the Vikings 2-1 and evening their record to 6-6 on the season, with six left.

The 'Cats would win all but one of their last remaining six games, on complete fire. Players who were thought of at the start of the season to be role players, were coming up huge with big plays, big goals or big stops. Veterans like goalkeeper Dan Alosco came up big time after time, while, younger players like Jason Gustin certainly made drastic improvements from the start of the season until the end. The coaching tactics were working, leading the team back to the state tournament with an 11-7 regular season record, and yes after starting out 0-3 and 3-6.

"It's really a credit to the kids," he said. "They could have easily tanked it the rest of the way. The credit goes out to their leaders for sticking with it and it really goes down to every kid on that roster."

Wilmington went into the state tournament against Lowell Catholic and beat them soundly like they should have, and then played a very good Marblehead team and lost 2-0, but played extremely well. The team finished with an 12-8 record, nine wins better than the season before.

Both Dick Scanlon and Steve Scanlon have proven how good of soccer coaches they are. In the 1990s, Dick won three sectional finals here in Wilmington, lost in the state final once and the state semi-final game twice. Steve won four league titles, two sectional titles and one state championship while at Westford. And assistant coach Chip Bruce was with Steve at Westford and then came over to Wilmington the last four years - so he has four sectional title wins, one state championship and six league titles.

"When I played in high school and college I had some incredible coaching," said Steve Scanlon. "My freshman year at Austin Prep my coach was Jim Kelley, who had 52 National Appearances. And when I went to Curry College I learned so much. Once you figure soccer out there's a whole new world out there - just so much. I used to come home and spend hours and hours talking with my father about soccer and everything I was learning. It drove my Mother crazy. But we would talk about it for hours."

"Philosophically my father and I see eye-to-eye on a lot of things. We just have different approaches. He has a gift with kids - he can relate to them and they play hard for him. That's a gift and he uses that. He has all of the sports psychology. We are a like in some ways too. I think we both know when a team needs a kick in the butt or when to lay off. There's that saying that if you catch a small bird you can't hold it so tight because you will kill it, but if you don't hold it strong enough it'll get away from you. I think that applies to coaching."

When asked if he wanted to stay on as head boys' soccer coach, Steve replied, "I was just filling in for a year. I hope my father comes back."

It's his team and he should go out the way he wants to."

As for Steve Scanlon, until he knows whether or not his father will be coming back he has another task at hand ... coaching the Wilmington High Ice Hockey team to its fifth league title in the last six years (8 league titles in soccer and hockey for Scanlon and Bruce in less than 10 years of coaching). First game is Wednesday.

Kim Gillespie

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It might have taken Kim Gillespie a little time to realize what hard work can do for an athlete, to realize how good she is and realize that she can accomplish nearly what she wants when she decides to do it.

"I have to go into races thinking that I can do this, I could do this," said the three-sport star who excels in winter and spring track, and field hockey. "I have to keep telling myself that. Everything is my head, and it took me a while to realize that I can do it with my feet."

Her feet have taken her to big places as a Wilmington High athlete. But it was her work ethic that needed a little jump start.

"My freshman year I wasn't as serious," she said. "But being at the level that I'm at now is really good for me. I'm taking things seriously and I've been working really hard to get myself to this level and to do well."

This year alone, Gillespie has conquered some pretty big things. In winter track she won the 300 race at the Cape Ann League meet (40.2 seconds), took sixth in the Class D Meet and 14th overall in the entire state at the all-state meet. In spring track she finished sixth again at the Class Meet and was part of the second place 4x400 relay team being an anchor leg with Jen Gillis, Kristen Kacamburas and Becky Rufo. She also took part in the high jump doing well clearing 5-0.

And then came field hockey where the team hadn't qualified for the state tournament since her freshman season, a game that she had played in, and she helped the program tremendously getting to the tournament.

For Gillespie she doesn't play the big team sports that grab a lot of attention. In the eyes of some, she runs, she leaps and she whacks a ball around. But in reality, she has proven that in track she is one of the best in her league, division and could be showing a serious state appearance pretty soon. In field hockey she proved that her hustle, speed and stick handling skills was a major reason for the team qualifying.

For the past few years Gillespie has been a member of the young track teams which didn't win often. In fact she and Rufo did most of the winning. But do that Gillespie had to learn a lot about sports, about competing, about herself and what she could or couldn't handle.

"In the 300 I had to learn how to run all the way through from start to finish," she said. "I would always started off strong and would die with 100 left. Now I've learned that you have to start out strong, stay strong and finish strong."

"Looking back at some of the races that I've lost I realize that I could have done better if I worked harder. You feel yourself slowing down in the last 100. But when you run all season long, every day at practice and at meets and by the end of the season if you knocked your time down by two tenths of a second, you know you have improved and that's a great feeling."

It's a great feeling to do well.

"I want to try to win the league in the 300 again this year and I want to improve on my high jump. The 4x400 team also has a real good shot to do well. In the 300 I want to finish in the top three or four in the state - hopefully I'll keep getting closer and closer to that goal. But I don't want to make any goal so outlandish. I've done that before and it's disappointing not to reach it."

"I think I have matured as a player, through every race. Every game I've played has effected the next game or the next race. Everything changes. I don't want to lose, I hate losing. I've become a pretty competitive person especially at this level I'm at. If I finished in sixth place I say I shouldn't have lost that race and next time I'm not going to finish sixth, I'm going to do better."

Gillespie has many goals set out for herself and she should because she is very good. Forty seconds in the 300 is pretty darn good, while her drama as the anchor leg of the 4x400 relay team - which broke the Cape Ann League record when she was a sophomore along with Rufo, Kacamburas and Laura Winn - also doesn't go unnoticed. She says being the anchor leg is very difficult, but being a part of the team is better.

"That moment I get the baton means everything," she said. "Everything I'm going to do is because of the work the three of them did. It's hard because you don't want to screw up after the hard work they put in to put me where I'm at. The played sports and got Tim, Kevin and younger sister Katie involved. "My Dad would always bundle us up together and we'd go out and shoot around - I think that was back in nursery school for me."

"My Dad has never been the one to pump me up," said Tim. "He'd say that I played a good game or he'd say that I could do better in this or that, but he was the one who always took all of us out to play basketball, soccer or baseball or whatever."

In soccer, Riley has that knack that not too many other kids have. He's tough, he's physical, he's demanding on himself yet he comes through. This year the team started off 0-3 and 3-6 but somehow won 8-of-9 games in the middle qualifying them for the state tournament. Tim was injured the first two games back of the winning streak, but those games weren't against the iron of the league. Once he came back and solidified the defense again, it was apparent that Wilmington High Boys' Soccer was back where it always had been.

"Sweeper is a position I know how to play and it's a position I love to play. I know when to help others out and I know when not to. Jason Gustin and Sean Cannon were great and the three of us have played together for a while. We knew each other and having them back there really made it easier for me."

Mentally there's not too many kids like Riley. He is extremely focused every second of every game or match he plays.

"I try to be mentally prepared for every game. You won't see me joking around - I'm there thinking about the game and how I'm going to play it."

Interim soccer coach for the season Steve Scanlon admitted that he didn't get to know Riley all that well in just the few months he was with him, but said what he did know and what he did watch is something he won't forget.

"He was Mr. Everything for us," said Scanlon. "He was extremely physical, he is an excellent jumper and very tough. There's no fear in the kid. He's a good leader, and he came to play every night. He was voted the MVP of our team, he was an all-league player and our only one. We never took him out, ever. The only time he missed was the two games he was hurt. He's a throwback kind of player - he has a nasty streak in him, there's no excuses or complaints from him - he just plays."

Kim Gillespie

second you think you're going to screw up you have to think that you don't want to let the three of them down. I'm the anchor leg for a reason and you hope that you just go out and do a good job."

Over the last three years

Gillespie has never settled for "good". She doesn't settle for anything, she strives on going that extra mile. In track she strives on better times, better places and to be with better competition year in and year out. In field hockey, she had a mission and wouldn't have settled for anything but.

"We set goals as a team," she said. "And it was really nice to be a part of it. My freshman year I got brought up at the end of the season and I was like 'wow this is the next level'. Miss Noone put me in the middle of the state tournament game and I didn't think I belonged out there. I was so scared to make a mistake."

"All we wanted this year was to make it to the states and we accomplished that goal which was a lot of fun," she continued. "We still feel that we should've beat Rockport in the first round but we didn't."

In field hockey, Gillespie is certainly a player. She was so pivotal in the midfield of every game, of setting up offensive plays and hustling back on defense. She could catch up to anyone carrying the ball, she could really smack the ball hard and low, and her hits were very consistent. She said that she started playing field hockey while in junior high with the middle school program. Then once high school came she joined the track team and it's been all success since then.

"My Dad (Bob) is the football, basketball and baseball guy and that's the only sports he knew and watched. He knows everything about all three sports. No one in my house heard of field hockey. Since my Dad has watched me play he understands these new sports and that has really become very important to me, of how my sports affect other people."

Kim is the second of four children at the Gillespie household. Her older brother Kevin tinkered with sports, but her younger siblings Brian and Kerry also play. She said that growing up she always played the youth sports like soccer and basketball, but suddenly she took up running which is certainly her forte.

"People think running is just going out and run," she said. "But it's so much more. You have to learn so much about every race. And the competition is really awesome - especially in the winter. There's so many other girls who are so good. But I love going out and competing. I'm definitely going to miss it. I've been exposed to a lot of nice people and so many great things I wouldn't have experienced if I didn't play sports."

And the Wilmington High track teams and field hockey teams wouldn't have been the same either.

The reasons behind the awards

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It's that time of year again.

When I became the sports editor of this paper seven years ago, I wanted to add a few of my own things that were mine. And one of those things was giving out my own personal awards at the end of the calendar season. And for the seventh time, I'm naming my Coach of the Year, Male Athlete of the Year and Female Athlete of the Year from both Wilmington and Tewksbury.

This year I decided to change things up just a tad bit. Usually I spread out the awards through the last three weeks of December, but this time I decided to put all three into one section (this one right here), mainly because I thought it would be a difficult to have the last article appear the week of Christmas, especially with the Holiday being on Monday this year.

I would like to explain myself on these awards. These three awards for each town can be given to anyone who lives in the town, or coaches who coach in the respective town. It can be anyone who participates in high school, college, pro, or even youth sports if I choose to do so. The persons don't have to go to Wilmington High School or Tewksbury High School, they can attend any school they would like. Now every year there are certainly some tough decisions to make for the awards and this year was by far the toughest for all three categories in both towns.

I would like to clarify something - these are my awards, people that I think deserve the awards and it doesn't matter how old they are, senior, junior, freshman or a 50-year old bowler. These awards have nothing to do with the respective high school awards that are given out in June.

I do ask a lot of other people for their opinions. I don't give an award to "the most popular kid in school" or anything like that. I give it to the person who I feel is the best male and female athlete of the calendar year, and for the coach who I feel did the best coaching job for his or her team.

Of the seven years I've been given out these awards, all but one time I've given the male and female athlete of the year to someone who plays three sports. And that's the basis I go with, because I feel that's a true sense of athlete of the year. My decisions for the athletes are based on many criteria including the impact they have on their teams, their sportsmanship, their own personal awards, etc. And the awards can be given out to the same people year after year like they have in some cases if that person, in my opinion, deserves that award.

In Wilmington, I had a real tough time selecting all three awards. I won't give my reasons of why I chose these three people over the others, but for the record I'd like to say that Al Fessenden, Mike Pimental, Bob Almeida and Sue Hendee all got serious consideration for the Coach of the Year. As for the Male Athlete, Jim Fennelly, Josh Hiltz, Josh Howlett and Mark Jepson also got serious consideration. And for the female athlete, Becky Rufo, Katelyn Sughrue, Colleen Cahill and Michele Lemos also got consideration.

In Tewksbury, this was awful trying to pick three people out of about two dozen people who could have easily been good choices for all three awards. Bob MacDougall, who has been the Coach of the Year about 30 times already, got serious consideration. For the Female Athlete, this is the first time I've ever given the award to an underclassman, but Kaitlyn O'Brien, Jess Breslin and Amy Von Kahle got serious consideration. And for the male selection, this took a lot of time to come out with one choice as what Scott Favreau, Ryan Carlson, Jack Byrne, Jason Stotik and Danny Elliman have done in their respective sports certainly didn't make things easy for me.

OK now all of that is out of the way. Of course I'll have some people disagree with me, but that's fine and good. The reason behind picking these six individuals each year is to promote the hard work and dedication these coaches and athletes have done while representing Wilmington or Tewksbury. There are no other reasons.

French, Byrne experience recruiting night

By PAUL HAYES
Sports Correspondent

In the grand ballroom of the Tewksbury Holiday Inn on Route 1 on Tuesday, representatives from 20 local colleges sat at tables covered with shiny football helmets, college brochures, stacks of applications and piles of pens.

It was 7:15 p.m., only 15 minutes after the doors had opened for the 18th annual Merrimack Valley Conference football recruiting night, and already 90 kids had arrived. One of the first was senior Bob French of Wilmington.

He arrived promptly at 6:30 p.m. with a couple of teammates from the Wilmington High School football team. He wore a gray button-down shirt and a dark blue tie, a business-like outfit tempered with a gray Abercrombie vest and gleaming white Nike high-top sneakers.

French carried a backpack slung over his right shoulder, containing 11 promotional packages, VHS game tapes accompanied by his high school academic transcripts and a list of his athletic honors, including being named the Boston Globe Division 4 Player of the Year, and Boston Herald All-Scholastic.

Despite his stellar high school career, French is under no delusions regarding his future. He knows he will not play professional football. He regards football as something that will pay for his education, and pave the way for his future.

"Academics are all I care about," said French. "If I could get into Tufts University (in Medford) or Bates College (in Maine), that's all I care about. I want the best education I can get."

French has already mailed his promotional package — the game tapes and the accompanying paperwork — to about five colleges. During his first half hour at the recruiting night he visits with representatives of another five colleges, starting with Merrimack College of North Andover. He is greeted by coach Bob Hickey, and another college representative asks him about the Thanksgiving game against arch-rival Tewksbury.

"So did you rub it in to Tewksbury?" the assistant asked with a grin.

"No," said French. "All you have to do is walk by and smile," said the assistant.

The ritual is the same at every college table. The players are greeted with a handshake by the prospective school's coaches and representatives. They have a short conversation, and the college representatives ask general questions about academic interests, football accomplishments, and future aspirations. In each case the student is asked to fill out some sort of application.

As French is about to leave, the Merrimack College representative hands him a business card and a school brochure, reminds him to call if he has any questions, and promises to arrange a visit to the college campus. French shakes hands with the assistant and walks away.

Afterwards he meets with representatives of several schools including Nichols College, Brighton Academy and Wagner Academy.

"All of them (the recruiters) take the same approaches," said French. "If I know them it's great, but (it's not great) if I don't know them and they just want me to sign stuff."

French takes a break after a half hour, and visits with Jack Byrne of Tewksbury, who is filling out an application for the University of Massachusetts at Lowell. Two weeks after they played against each other in the Thanksgiving day game, French and Byrne are friendly. French does not smile to "rub it in," they are both on the same side now — high school seniors preparing for college.

Byrne is casual and relaxed in contrast to the business-like, determined French.

Byrne said he wanted to continue to play football in college because he was not ready to give the game up just yet. The Tewksbury High tight end and defensive end said that in college he would like to focus on playing defense.

"Football is a big part of my life, it's hard to let it go," said Byrne, who has played the game since he was about 7 years old. But he said he considers school more important than football.

While he plays football in college, Byrne will sort out his academic future. He said he is looking for a school with a wide variety of academic majors, which will allow him some latitude in deciding which career path he will take.

After leaving the UMass-Lowell table, he makes his way across the room to the table where students are filling out information sheets for Bentley College of Waltham. He shakes hands with the head coach for the Bentley College football team and fills out a form. Byrne said the recruiting night was only the first step in deciding what college he would attend.

"(Tonight) I'm just asking the basic questions, I'll follow up with visits and calls," said Byrne. "This is the starting point."

Tewksbury athletic director Bob Aylward established the MVC football recruiting night after visiting a similar recruiting session in the South Shore town of Ashland. He wanted to create the same recruitment opportunities for students and coaches on the North Shore. Assisting Aylward are his son Rob, assistant coach for the Tewksbury High football team, and Ed Harrison, former Wilmington High football coach.

Now over 200 students arrive each year from schools in the Merrimack Valley Conference, Cape Ann League, Middlesex League, Dual County League and from New Hampshire. Teams from as far away as Athol (MA) and Wells (ME) have travelled to the recruiting night.

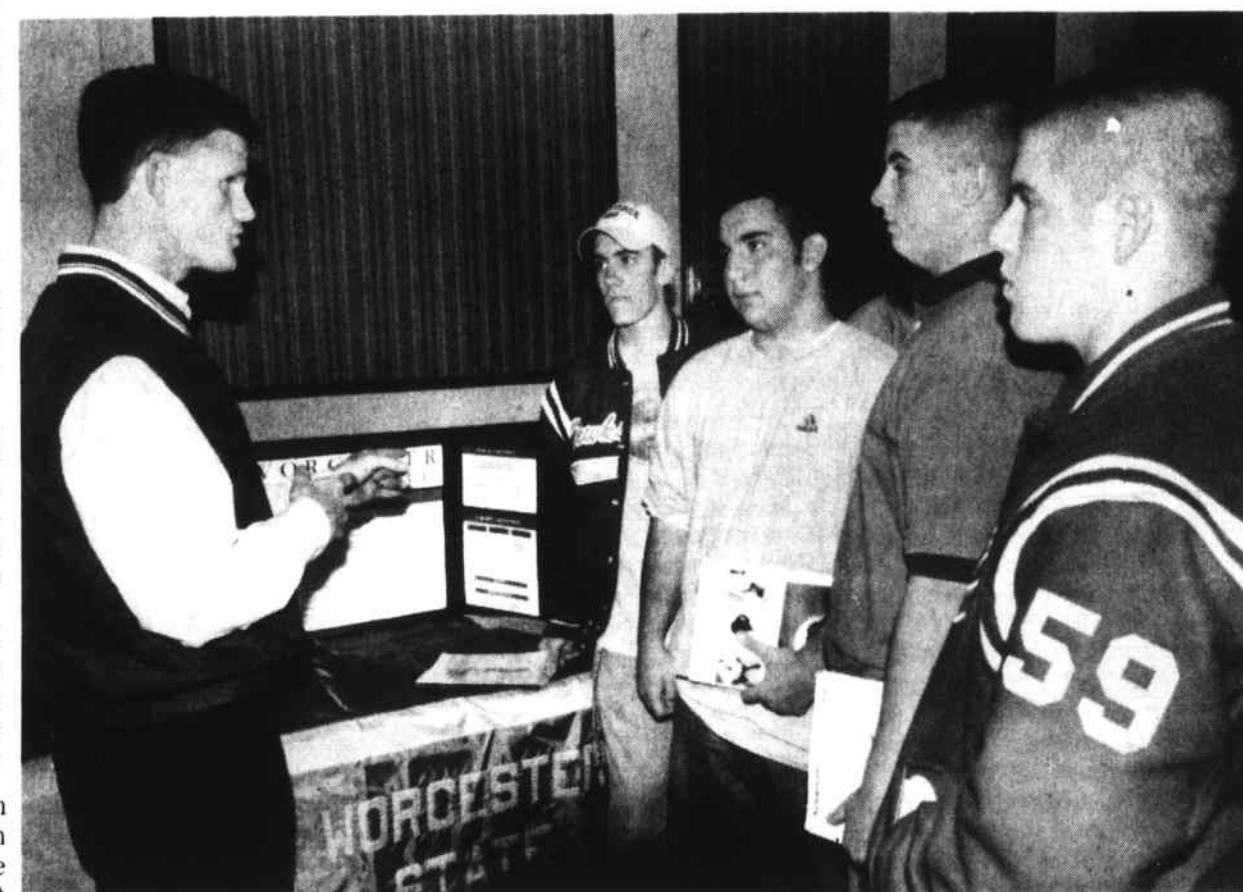

Aylward said the recruitment night allows students to put their lives in perspective. He said all kids that play football grow up with aspirations of receiving a full scholarship and playing for a Division I-A or I-AA college program. The recruitment night, he said, is "a real eye opener" to many schoolboy football players.

"Most kids can't meet the physical profile of a Division I-A or I-AA school," said Aylward. "The recruitment process allows a kid to see early at what level they will have the best chance."

When he was a high school senior in Somerville during the early 1960's, Aylward was a highly re-

ON TUESDAY NIGHT AT THE HOLIDAY INN IN TEWKSBURY, College Recruiting Night was held for local high school football players. garded player who attracted interest from the coach of West Texas State College. Aylward expected he would attend West Texas College the following fall, but first the coach had to contact him and confirm he had been accepted as a member of the football team.

"I waited and waited, until it was nearly summer," said Aylward. He was infuriated and thought he had been overlooked. He wrote a letter to the West Texas College coach, proposing to challenge and beat the team's best player in a one-on-one competition. Then Aylward received some jaw dropping news.

"The (college) coach said he liked my attitude, but he never received the game film from my (high school) coach," said Aylward. He realized that students required assistance with the nuts-and-bolts side of the recruiting process, to prevent another "West Texas College" experience. "I was devastated when I got the news, I've never forgotten it."

The football recruitment night will have differing impacts on students, some will leave with a firm commitment to attend a particular college, while others will have a better understanding of where they will play college football, and what they want from their college education and college experience.

"The success story is going to be when a whole lot of kids benefit from this (recruitment night) in two to five months down the road," said Aylward. "There's no question, it happens time and time again."

Squirt B's end in deadlock

Wilmington 4, Methuen 4
The Wilmington Squirt B's battled Methuen Squirt B's to a 4-4 tie in Dual State action. The Cats jumped out in front when Steve Wamboldt battled out in front of the Methuen net and jammed home a Mike Derosa shot. Action was up and down the ice with both teams playing solid defense.

The Cats defense was led by the tough play of Evan Brennan, Steve Dunnett, John Kincaid and Cam Fitzpatrick. The period ended with a 1-0 lead for the Cats. Methuen tied the game early in the second but the Cats answered on a power play with the prettiest goal of the game. With the action behind the Methuen net Justin Dirienzo passed to Casey Pickett, Casey passed it back to Justin and Justin dished it to Mike Derosa who was all alone in front of the net as both defensemen committed to the play behind the net. Mike seemed to have all day to wait for the goalie to go down and he popped it in top corner.

Methuen tied the game before the end of the period making it 2-2 after two. Mike Cabral was called upon to make some key stops in the game but Methuen had two nice goals to open the third period putting the Cats in the hole early in the period. The Cats responded as Casey Pickett found Mike Derosa breaking out of the Cats zone and Mike broke through the defense placed a beauty by the Methuen goalie to get the Cats within one goal.

The Cats fought hard for the equalizer as Mike Jensen, Kevin Creedon, and Matt Stokes applied the pressure. Hard work paid off as Cam Fitzpatrick connected a breakout pass to Casey Pickett who broke into the Methuen zone and dished to Nick Riccio who appeared to be passing it back to Casey but the puck wobbled into the net for the tying score. Both teams battled for the win with Mike Cabral making a couple of nice stops and the Cats escaped from Methuen with the 4-4 tie.

Andover 5, Wilmington 1
The Cats second game of the day and the third for Huskies, Mike Derosa, Steve Dunnett and Mike Jensen and Warrior Nick Riccio was a home game against a very talented Andover B team. Splitting the previous two meetings the Cats knew they would be in a tough game. Andover jumped out in front 35 seconds into the game and never really looked back as they built a 3-0 lead after two periods.

The Cats defense was as good as they could be as they stood up the Andover forwards playing tough physical hockey. Cam Fitzpatrick played inspired defense as he continued to take on the best players Andover had and banged them off the puck. Evan Brennan, Steve Dunnett, Mike Derosa and John Kincaid shared the rest of the defensive duties and played strong. Mike Cabral saw plenty of shots and could not be faulted as the goals Andover scored were tough shots.

The Cats had a glimmer of hope as Mike Jensen found Mike Derosa in front of the Andover net with a little more than three minutes left in the game and he found back of the net with Casey Pickett getting the other assist on the play. Andover roared right back scoring two more to close out the game at 5-1.

Notes Column

Due to the scheduling of teams the Wilmington and Tewksbury High boys' ice hockey, wrestling girls' track, and boys' track, as well as Shawsheen ice hockey, wrestling, boys basketball and swimming, team previews and schedules will appear in next week's edition since their season begins later than the basketball teams. Wilmington's girls' hockey team preview will appear next week, while, the gymnastics previews will not appear until the first week of January because of their late start.

Other female skaters

Wilmington natives Manda Boucher, goalie, and Liz Carter, a forward, are members of the Matignon High School girls' ice hockey program.

Youth Wrestling news

Sign-ups for Wilmington Youth Wrestling will take place on Thursday at 6 pm in the Teachers Cafeteria at Wilmington High School.

Hall of Fame seeks applications

The Tewksbury Memorial High School Athletic Hall of Fame Committee is accepting applications for its eighth Annual Induction Ceremony, which will be held at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Lodge of Elks on April 6, 2001.

Applications due by January 19, 2001 are available at the TMHS Athletic Office. For more information, call Bob Aylward at 978-640-7834.

Free toddler skating lessons

The Chelmsford Forum in North Billerica will be offering free Learn to Skate lessons for toddlers Friday, December 22 at 1:50 p.m. and Wednesday, December 27 at 10 a.m.

The half hour lessons will be taught by the Bay State Blades, who specialize in skating instruction for toddlers, and will be open for children between the ages of two and a half and six. Space is limited. No previous skating experience is necessary. Ice skates and helmets will be provided first come, first served basis.

To reserve a space for the lesson, call the Bay State Blades office at 781-871-7681. Skaters may also register on line at www.fmcarenas.com.

Registration for upcoming learn to skate programs will be conducted at both introductory lessons.

Mite D's continue strong pace

Playing at Merrimack Valley Forum at six o'clock on a week night means allowing lots of travel time for the Wilmington Mite D youth hockey team.

Once out of traffic and on the ice the kids took control. It seems whatever combination of kids play defense they know their jobs. The Ryan Brothers, Cori Michals, Tyler Stillings, Adam Martiniello, Brendan Munro and Eddie Sheridan kept the puck out of their zone for most of the game.

Goalie Brian Good stopped all but two shots that he faced. The offense produced four goals with one each by Scott Deronde, Nick Pino, Chris Ryan and John See. Great two way play by Tyler MacInnis, Tommy Shafer, Joe Aucoin, Frankie Mearls and John Langenfeld helped Wilmington keep control and get another victory.

Girls Hockey starts its beginning stages in Wilmington

By Paul Hayes
Sports Correspondent

Joe McMahon has coached ice hockey for about 20 years. He has instructed children participating in Wilmington Youth Hockey, and for the past five years he has coached the Huskies, a regional youth hockey team in Tyngsboro.

For a coach with nearly two decades of experience, getting up at 5 a.m. and negotiating a car through dark streets and freezing temperatures, in order to make practice at the Ristuccia Arena by 6 a.m. is not unusual. What is unusual is that the players who meet him there two or three mornings a week are girls, many of whom have never skated before.

McMahon coaches Wilmington High School girls ice hockey team (a club team right now), which set to open its inaugural 19 game season this winter with a "jamboree night" in Cambridge on December 13.

This year the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association officially sanctioned girls ice hockey, making it a recognized interscholastic sport. Nearly 40 schools have already formed varsity-level teams, and several others including Wilmington have created club teams.

As a club team, Wilmington girls hockey will not receive athletic department funding this season. The uniforms and equipment are paid for with private funds, and the coaches do not receive compensation, but McMahon expects the team to earn varsity status (and the accompanying funding) in two to four years.

According to McMahon, he proposed forming a girls ice hockey team a year ago to Wilmington High School athletic director Jim Gillis. A survey was sent out in the spring to gauge community support for a girls hockey team, the results were overwhelmingly in favor of the idea. A year after McMahon suggested a girls hockey team, Gillis called and asked McMahon to be its first coach.

Once the decision was made to create a girls team, the next hurdle was to cultivate a roster, and offer training to potential players. Many of the girls interested in playing hockey had no prior experience. Some were formerly figure skaters, others had never set foot in a rink.

Goalie Heather See, a sophomore, was formerly a field hockey goalie. Grade eight student Julie Martell, also a projected goalie, has a skating background. Meanwhile, grade eight students Jennifer Corcoran and Jackie Rideout have been playing youth hockey since they were around seven years old.

"Many of the girls have always wanted to play hockey, some have never skated before," said McMahon. He said many girls did not get involved and learn the game earlier, because some girls are intimidated to play alongside boys. Wilmington does not have girls youth hockey program.

McMahon organized a series of summer skating and skill practices. Turnout was high. A group of 20 to 30 girls participated in weekly training sessions at the Merrimack Valley Forum in Lawrence on Sundays through July and August. The team's first official practice took place the Monday after Thanksgiving.

After just three practices, McMahon said there are a lot of unknowns. Rosters are not set, players are not yet matched up with positions. What is known is the team is young. The roster is comprised primarily of underclassmen in grades eight, nine and 10. The full roster of 22 includes just five juniors.

"Most older students are already involved in other sports," said McMahon.

McMahon is currently focused on teaching his players the rules of hockey. Basic terms such as back-checking and fore-checking are new to many of his players. He is also focused on teaching his players to skate, before teaching them the fundamentals of stick handling and shooting, offense or defense.

"Once everything is together, the experienced girls will provide leadership by their words and by example," said McMahon.

Girls hockey has flourished since 1998, when the United States won the gold medal in the inaugural women's ice hockey Olympic competition. The team was featured on the Wheaties cereal box, and the players - including five from Massachusetts and three from New Hampshire became instant celebrities.

In the wake of the Olympic triumph, girls youth hockey has become increasingly popular. Mirroring the increased popularity of other girls sports, practically soccer, girls ice hockey teams and leagues began to spring up all over the state.

McMahon said he hoped Wilmington would someday establish a girls youth hockey league, as a feeder for the high school program. For the time being, he said his goal was to create an interest in girls' hockey.

"I want to get the word out that playing hockey is fun," said McMahon.

Lady Rams face tough challenge

By DAVID FLYNN
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Rams' girls basketball team already has a major obstacle in its way. And the season has not even begun.

The Athletic Directors of the Commonwealth Athletic Conference made the decision to move the Rams from the CAC Small to the CAC Large.

Instead of playing its regular schedule against schools its own size, Shawsheen will be taking on basketball powers such as Presentation of Mary, Tyngsboro, Chelsea, Lynn Tech and Whittier.

The news of the move to CAC Large did not please Rams' head coach Bill Ritchie.

"The Athletic Directors in their infinite wisdom in this league moved us up to the upper division. They left the largest voke school in the state in the lower division, Greater Lowell."

Ritchie added, "We are going to be lucky to win two or three games in our own division. We may not make the tournament. We are going to be a much improved team from last year and we may not make the tournament."

Shawsheen has more than one reason to be optimistic, however.

The Rams have its leading scorer from a year ago, sophomore center Ashley Morgado (Wilmington), sophomore forward/shooting guard Kristin Porfido (Wilmington), who is perhaps the best pure shooter to ever play at Shawsheen and a skilled defender in junior co-captain Kelly Gillis (Wilmington) all returning.

The jump up in divisions was not something that made Ritchie smile. The character, youth and skill of the Rams' team, does.

"I think we've got something here," said Ritchie. "This is a really good group of people."

The 2000 Rams will be led by Morgado, who stands slightly more than 6'0", and averaged 15.7 points per game in 1999. She will be the go-to-player for the Rams this season.

"She is a player," said Ritchie. "In the half court game (last year) she was our center and against pressure she handled it (the ball). She is a player."

The lone senior, point guard Karyn Antonelli (Billerica, who is also a co-captain, will also be relied upon heavily by the Rams. Antonelli averaged 8.0 points per game.

"She sees the floor well and she runs the floor well," said Ritchie.

Porfido will play forward this season but will be asked to play off guard and shooting guard as well. Ritchie raved about Porfido's ability to shoot the ball. The Rams will look to Porfido to make some big baskets.

"Eight hours a day everyday," said Ritchie, referring to Porfido's hard work to improve her shooting. "She can shoot the eyes out of the basket. She is just a great, great pure shooter."

Gillis will rotate at the forward position along with junior Kathleen Guiney (Burlington) and Amanda Lauzon (Bedford). Gillis, who is 5'7", will be the defensive leader for the Rams.

"She is tenacious on defense," said Ritchie, commenting on Gillis.

"And she has become a very good passer. But she is a very, very good defensive player."

Guiney and Lauzon are very similar players to Gillis. They differ in that Guiney is very quick to the ball and Lauzon will add a presence along with Morgado on the inside.

"They all intertwine," said Ritchie of his trio of forwards. "Guiney" is the same as Kelly except she is very quick to the ball. Her first step is explosive. (Lauzon) has become a very good complement to Morgado. She has become a good inside shooter."

A new face to the Rams' roster, junior transfer Jen Miles, a 5'6" guard, has been a pleasant addition to the roster. She is fighting for a spot in the starting lineup.

Ritchie said, "Miles" looks like she is going to contribute."

Returning letterman Jessica Eaton will be another player to look out for. Eaton, a sophomore guard, will be an asset to the Rams' roster because of her speed and quickness.

Rounding out the Rams' roster is a trio of freshmen. 5'10" Jen Elwell (Tewksbury), 5'11" Denise Lazzara (Tewksbury) and 5'4" guard Jackie Raymond (Billerica) will add depth to an already strong roster.

The Rams do not have any breathing room at the beginning of the season. Shawsheen opens up with Lynn Tech and then has to face PMA, Tyngsboro and Chelsea before the Christmas holiday.

It is not an easy way to start the season.

"I would say this is our most difficult four game start in 10 years," said Ritchie, who has been the head coach at Shawsheen for 12 years. "It is going to be a tough road."

Ritchie is confident the Rams have the talent to succeed. He also believes what will define the 2000 Rams is how they prepare to play a difficult game every night.

"I think how the team responds to playing a hard game every night and not having a breather (will define this team)," said Ritchie. "It is going to be a difficult year but I think we can over come it."

Gillis and Morgado believe the Rams will respond well to whatever diversity comes at them throughout the year.

Gillis said, "I think we have a good team. I think we are going to go far. We basically have the same team as last year."

Morgado added, "I think we can go as far as we want to. I was surprised that we got moved up another division, but I think we can do as good as them."

The Rams look to have its work cut out for them and Ritchie understands it is not going to be an easy road. He is confident that despite the move to the CAC Large, the Rams will be a team to contend with.

"This may be a much harder schedule," said Ritchie, adding, "But we are going to be a team that could beat last year's team by double digits."

Opposing teams should be wary of that fact!

Blue Lightning falls to Danvers by a basket

Colonials skate strong in latest competition

The Colonials, nationally ranked synchronized skating teams including 82 skaters from 35 towns in eastern Massachusetts, skated strong performances as they competed Saturday with teams from America's heartland at the Dr. Richard Porter Classic in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Coached by Merita Mullen-Rafuse of Wayland and assistant coach Nancy Schricker of Boxborough, the Colonials field four teams competing in the Youth, Juvenile, Intermediate and Junior divisions.

The Junior team, which competes both nationally and internationally, presented their short program (about two and a half minutes) to a "Danse Macabre" theme and their long program (about four minutes) to Dvorak's New World Symphony, placing fourth in their short program and third in their long.

The Intermediate skaters, with a highly technical program which they executed with apparent ease, placed first earning them a gold medal as they skated to a music theme of "Blue" including scores ranging from the Eiffel 65 "I'm Blue" to Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

The Juvenile team, which includes Jessica Scalzi of Tewksbury, skating to "Rocky" (the movie) music theme, also competed in the Juvenile division, which is ages 12 and under.

The Youth team, skaters aged eight to 11 years, did not participate in this competition.

The Colonials Juvenile Intermediate teams will perform on Frog Pond on the common at Boston's First Night celebration.

The next competition will be at the Cape Cod Classic in Bourne, Saturday, December 9.

Danvers 29 - Wilmington 27.

The Wilmington Wildcat Girls 6B Traveling Basketball Team (Blue Lightning) opened the season last Friday night in Danvers where they experienced the term "underdog." The Wilmington team composed of seven fifth graders and six sixth graders faced a seventh grade Danvers team that was much taller than the Lightning's tallest player and more experienced.

The team demonstrated that there are other ways to be bigger in basketball such as persistence and competitive desire. The Lightning started out slow allowing the Danvers team to score 10 unanswered points. Then Katie Cole, Briana Bozzella and Jill Manganelli started the full-court press while Christina Luciano, Brooke Langone and Alyssa Brown started seriously blocking out inside the paint. This defensive exhibition sparked the team and the offense started to find some seams between Danvers' triple towers.

The tempo of the game picked up significantly and by half-time the score was 19 to 12 in Danvers favor. With some half-time adjustments and a renewed tenacity, the Blue Lightning with competitive confidence began to strike. Jessica Stira, Casey Godzyk, Danielle Robarge and Kate McGrath put the defensive pressure to Danvers. Sarah McMahon at one point stopped five consecutive penetrations with blocks and steals. Collectively, the team held Danvers to just 10 points in the second half while the offense started to produce. Katie Cole took control of the floor completing three penetrating drives while Christina Luciano kept dropping in shots. Briana Bozzella and Jill Manganelli kept probing the Danvers defense often forcing double coverage.

The Blue Lightning fought back hard and scored fifteen points during the second half and was three of six from the charity line. Danielle Robarge driving to the basket was fouled and amid a screaming partisan crowd calmly sank two free throws like a pro to tie the game with one minute left. Unfortunately, Danvers scored once more and the suffered its first loss to a non-conference team 29 - 27. Scoring for the Blue Lightning were Luciano (12), Cole (8), Bozzella (3), Robarge (2) and Brown (2).

Wilmington 34 - Billerica 28.

The Blue Lightning opened their conference schedule at Shawheen Tech against Billerica, a traditional girls basketball powerhouse. The team came off the tip-off with a fast-paced aggressive style that was a little too tough for Billerica to take. Katie Cole, Briana Bozzella, Jessica Stira and Jill Manganelli effectively headed the Blue Lightning pressure defense while the team received timely rebounding from Christina Luciano and Alyssa Brown. The first half went by quickly with the intermission scoring standing at Wilmington 24 - Billerica 12.

The second half proved to be much slower than the first. Once again point guard Katie Cole pushed the offense by working the ball into the key for Christina Luciano and Alyssa Brown. Kate McGrath despite a bad knee, provided much-needed relief at guard. Tough, scrappy play by Nicole Nihan, Danielle Robarge, Casey Godzyk and Brooke Langone forced multiple "jumpballs." Guard Colleen Carroll, out with a fractured arm led the bench cheering section. Scoring for the Blue Lightning were Luciano (14), Brown (6), Cole (3), Robarge (3), and 2 each for Bozzella, Godzyk, Manganelli and Langone.

The Wilmington Blue Lightning's win/loss record now stands at 1-0 in the River Valley Jr. High Girls Basketball League (6C1 Division) and 1-1 overall. The team opens at home next Sunday (1PM - 10 December) at the Wilmington High School Gym against Hamilton-Wenham.

Bantam B's edge Cambridge, 2-1

Wilmington 2, Cambridge 1
The Wilmington Bantam B's took on Cambridge in a Sunday game. Cambridge came out and scored in the first at 9:56. Steffan Tosi took the puck from his opponent and shot it on net only to have goaltender tie it up and Chris Olson checked them to the boards. Joe Pino cleared the puck out of the B's zone, Jimmy Fitzpatrick and Donny Heenan did good backchecking when Cambridge headed in the zone.

In the second period the B's knew they would have to put one in soon and Bob Ryan lit the lamp. At 8:16 Bryant Buck quickly got in at the corners and got the puck. As he got it to Stephen Emery who took a shot on net only to have it deflected off the netminder. They both got an assist as Bobby Ryan got the rebound and scored. Robbi Riccio attempted a slap shot from the blue line that just cleared the net. Tommy Blaisdell skated the puck in right to the net only to have the goaltender tie it up.

In the third, Misha Glazomigsky and Tommy Lee worked at keeping the puck out of their zone along with checking their opponents. Derick Duarte made a clean check at center ice taking his opponent out of play. Jay Surianello and Russell Grant came out strong riding Cambridge along the board, taking the puck and rushing out of zone as Cambridge struggled to try and score another.

The B's would not let it happen as they skated faster and harder and Bobby Ryan lit the lamp with his unassisted goal as he rushed to the net with :36 left. Cambridge didn't have much time and was defeated. The quickness of the B's goaltenders who always do a great job minding their net was Mike Thibault and Tim Anderson. With every game the B's get better. Good job B's.

Mite A's skating hard

This past weekend, the Tewksbury Mite A hockey team, sponsored by East Coast Irrigation, tied a game and won another.

On Saturday, December 2, Tewksbury and Manchester, NH skated to a 2-2 tie.

Tewksbury held the edge in play, but could not hold on to their 2-1 goal advantage in the third period. With 7 minutes left in the game, Manchester popped in the tying goal.

Shawn Bradley and Andrew Lee scored Tewksbury's goals (both unassisted).

On Sunday afternoon, December 3, the Redmen pounded Danvers by a 5-1 score.

The defensive crew of James Sullivan, David Conley, Evan Cutelis and George Barnes was solid. Goaltender James Berkeley had a strong game, stopping some

Squirt III's dominate against Burlington

The Tewksbury Squirt III Ice Hockey team, sponsored by Wright Sales Corporation, Windham, N.H., has announced the results of two league games that recently occurred.

On Friday December 1, Tewksbury faced off against Burlington at Skate III in Tyngsboro during a Dual State contest. From the opening faceoff, Tewksbury dominated the play for the entire game.

The first period saw three goals by Tom MacLeod and one by Chris Diiorio to take a 4-0 lead. Joe Napolitano and Stephen Dame provided assists on two of the tallies. Burlington was able to sneak one past the Tewksbury net minder in the second stanza but Tewksbury added to their lead in that second period with goals by Lindsay Picano and Rollee Jenkins with Joe Napolitano assisting on both.

The third period witnessed Tewksbury continuing to dominate Burlington with three more goals. Goals by Joe Napolitano, Rollee Jenkins and Tom MacLeod with helpers contributed by Katie Ladd, Lindsay Picano and Cory O'Brien. Tewksbury spread the wealth in scoring with five different skaters obtaining at least multiple points each. Tom MacLeod, four goals, Joe Napolitano, one goal and three assists, Lindsay Picano, one goal and one assist, Rollee Jenkins, two goals and one assist and Katie Ladd, two assists.

Other standouts were Matt Crowley, Keith McCarthy, Stephen Dame, Chris Diiorio, Cory O'Brien, Chris Tully, Neil Marino, Shawn Donovan, Brett Little and Evan

Walsh. Tewksbury goaltenders saw little action, but provided quality minutes non the less. The final score was 9-1 in favor of Tewksbury.

Tewksbury returned to action Sunday, December 3 at 6:20 p.m. at Merrimack College in a Valley League game against a very physical Andover squad. The team Christmas party was held at the Teen Center on Livingston Street from noon to 4 p.m. and was organized by Michelle Walsh. Even though the players kept active at the party, they were focused with game at hand.

Chris Diiorio opened the scoring at 9:58 of the first period with a nice goal that was assisted by Neil Marino and Shawn Donovan. Continued action was ongoing in both zones, but the Tewksbury goaltending combination of Evan Walsh and Matt Crowley kept Andover at bay. At 1:56 of the same period, Lindsay Picano increased the lead with an assist by Rollee Jenkins.

The second period saw Tewksbury advance their lead with goals from Chris Diiorio's perfect backhand shot past the Andover goalie. Neil Marino and Shawn Donovan added assists to the goal. Rollee Jenkins netted the final goal which was assisted by Joe Napolitano and Lindsay Picano. Tewksbury played their style of hockey which included precision breakouts, pesky forechecking and timely backchecking. Evan Walsh and Matt Crowley chalked up another shutout in their already impressive record. All the Tewksbury players contributed to the outstanding effort.

Mite C's blow out Agawam

The Mite C's continued their winning ways with an 8-0 victory over Agawam. Wilmington scored all eight goals in the first period. Patrick Boudreau lead the way with two goals. The defense was solidly anchored by Melissa Good and Kyle Gaffey. These two really put the clamps on the Agawam attack. Kyle also chipped in with two assists. Jimmy Mullen was in the net ready to smother the scraps the defense let by.

After Saturday's offensive barrage the Sunday game against Tewksbury was a game played in the trenches. Both teams looked for that little edge. Tewksbury started to gain an edge by moving the puck along the boards. Until Craig Benard dug in and held the attackers in check until reinforcements arrived. Jimmy Stokes to the rescue. Jimmy picked up a nice touch pass from Craig and off he went turning the tide in Wilmington's favor.

The line of Tommy Quilty, Cody Wilkins, and Matt Kasparian were really clicking today up and down the ice passing great. Tommy and Matt did a great job of sprigging Cody. At the top of the circle Cody launched a missile from his Howitzer that rattled the top corner. A very big goal.

The second period started with Tewksbury storming down the ice. The Wilmington defense was not shaken. Veteran defensemen Brian Fitzpatrick and Tommy Callahan have been through this many times. They moved the puck up and out. Simple as that.

With a defense like that, the offense is free to skate fearlessly deep into enemy territory. Two top snipers Patrick Young and Tommy Cushing were in and out of enemy lines battling for a scoring chance.

The third period started with Wilmington trying to extend their slim lead and taking some big chances. Tewksbury hung tough and sent a skater in for a breakaway. For Wilmington, it's like sending in the cavalry. Brian Hurley got on his horse and started a coming. Once again Brian broke the play up at the last moment. As the puck strayed to the corner Nick Masiello scooted in and started the other way. A sweet give and go with Cody and Nick zeroing in. Nick ripped a shot off that just missed.

With the crowd still buzzing, Tewksbury made their final assault. They pulled their goalie and like a pack of Kamakazi pilots as they swooped in on goalie Mullen. Jimmy was ready to repel the final Tewksbury onslaught. Wilmington won 1-0. Jimmy Mullen got two shutouts in two days.

Mite E's winning streak continues

The Mite E team completed first round Valley League play on Saturday, December 2, winning five straight games.

Wilmington 7, Amesbury 0
Wilmington got off to a quick start scoring three first period goals. One by John Malone and two by Dennis Gingras. One of Dennis' goals was set up by a perfect pass from Dan Dighton. Steven Cadigan got the shot out in goal. Dennis Gingras got the hat trick.

Wilmington 5, Billerica 1
After a scoreless first period, Wilmington put four pucks in the net in the second period, on goals by Stephen Cadigan, Kevin Moriarty, Cole Carter and John Malone. Adam Seigel played great in goal and the defense of Ryan Derian, Drew Cummings, John Hughson, John Moriarty and Scott Layton allowed only a handful of shots.

Wilmington 4, Beverly 2
Trailing one to nothing after period one again Wilmington had a strong second period getting goals from John Moriarty, John Hughson and Ryan Derian on a great pass from Sara Alonardo. The teams traded goals in the third period as Scott Layton held the fort in goal.

Wilmington 2, Reading 1
This time Wilmington started fast in what would be a hard defensive battle. Two goals in the first period by Dan Dighton and Ryan Derian on a nice pass from Dan Creedan held up as Wilmington defense kept Reading away from the net. It was led by David Sugrue, Dominic Dirupo, John Moriarty and Drew Cummings. Stephen Cadigan had another great game in goal.

Wilmington 4, Cape Ann 1
After a sluggish start, Wilmington put up three goals started by Ryan Derian on a nice feed from Dan Creedan. Cole Carter put Wilmington up 2-0 just 15 seconds later in the second period. In the third period Adam Seigel would score on a steal and breakaway.

Drew Cummings stoned Cape Ann in goal until the last minute and four seconds. John Moriarty scored on a nice pass from John Hughson to finish the scoring. Again, strong defensive play by Sara Alonardo, David Sugrue, Dominic Dirupo, John Malone and Kevin Moriarty was the key to the game.

Sixth grade boys hoop team suffers first loss

The Wilmington Sixth Grade boys basketball team suffered its first loss of the season to a tough Westford team.

Both teams came into Saturday's contest with matching undefeated league records. The Wildcats got off to an uncharacteristic fast start as Rich Barry and Nick Duggan hit for the first two hoops of the game.

Strong defense by Kyle Borseti and Dan Patterson kept Westford at bay in the early going. This was a very evenly matched and hard fought game. Wilmington took a 18-15 lead into halftime.

Westford came out tough in the second half as they scored three hoops off Wilmington turnovers. Midway through the second half, Westford had built an eight point lead, but the Wildcats never quit! Mike Thomas and Pat Ryan ripped down a couple of big rebounds.

Josh Mayo came up with a few big steals and two big hoops to lead Wilmington back into this one. Tim Kent and Greg Stewart threw in four points each down the stretch, and Brendan Demango hit a big three pointer to close the gap to just two points.

But Wilmington ran out of time as Westford hung on for a 41-49 victory.

The loss dropped the Wildcats to 2-1 in league play and 6-1 overall. They play Dracut at home Saturday at 4:30 at the Middle School.

Wilmington Friends of the Library offering the perfect present:

Friends of the Library Book Bag

Preschool holiday party Dec 13

The annual party for preschoolers and their families will be held on Wednesday, December 13 at 10 a.m. Winter stories, finger plays and the traditional singing of "Jingle Bells" will be part of the festivities. Holiday punch and cookies will be served. As always, small contributions of cookies are appreciated!

Friends book bags

Just in time for the holiday season, the Friends of the Library book bags are now available in cherry red, not just basic black. The book bags, which cost $10 for Friends and $12 for "acquaintances" or nonmembers, can be purchased at the main circulation desk. These book bags make great holiday gifts for the avid book reader and for anyone who needs an extra tote to take to work or to the gym. Karen Campbell, Friends Fund Raising Chairman, points out that purchase of Friends' book bags enables the Friends to buy new green book bags for the Children's Department.

The Friends have purchased over 500 green book bags that parents and children borrow when they checkout a stack of books from the Children's Room. Many parents have pointed out that these bags help them keep their library books together and reduce the chance of getting lost in the house.

Kids book discussion

On Friday, December 1 at 3:30 p.m. Children's Librarian Susan MacDonald will meet with all young patrons interested in discussing "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe," by C.S. Lewis.

Coming Soon - A new library catalog

Patrons and staff can say goodbye to the old "dumb" terminals that are known for not being very user friendly. Debuting December 13, all libraries in the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium (MVL) will have a new computer system. The PC based epixtech Horizon provides a powerful web based catalog. From the library or from home, patrons will be able to reserve any book owned by the MVL library and pick the book up at the library of their choice. Patrons will also be able to renew their books on-line and find out what items they have checked out and when they're due. Please note that the library staff can still do all these things for patrons and are prepared to help anyone learn the new system.

In preparing for the implementation of the new system, the library's old computer system will be down on Tuesday, December 12, the day before the new system, goes on-line. Please remember to take your library card that day which you will need to check out any library material.

Tewksbury Library programs offered

Tewksbury - Regular programs and special events for children continue throughout December at the Tewksbury Public Library. Programs are scheduled for all ages of children, from newborn to elementary school age, and programs are usually geared to a specific age group. Parents are reminded to verify the appropriate audience age level in advance.

On Saturday afternoon, December 9, the library will host Imagine That! Productions, led by Sarah Salem-Thomas, a Boston theater professional and educator. Children from the audience will take roles in a performance of "The Singing, Ringing Tree," a fairy tale about good and evil. Featuring large, papier-mache' masks created by award-winning Boston artist Ruth Fledermaus, this adaptation of "The Singing, Ringing Tree" illustrates the transforming power of love, as a spoiled princess learns how to love and be kind. Other roles for audience participation include an evil monster, a poetry-writing panda, a cake baking pig, and, of course, a magical singing, ringing tree.

This program for school age children will begin at 10:00 a.m. in the public library's meeting room. This program has been made possible by a grant from the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency funded by the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

In the fourth of 10 scheduled appearances, popular storyteller Papa Joe returns to the library on Saturday morning, December 16, for a special holiday performance entitled "Tis the Season." His performance, which begins at 10 a.m., will be held in the Library's Meeting Room. The program is for infants and toddlers, ages newborn to 36 months, accompanied by a parent or caregiver. Since seating is limited older siblings cannot be accommodated at this program, and admission is on a first come, first served basis. Papa Joe's 10 performances are funded by a grant from the Family Foundations Network, a division of Community Teamwork, Inc.

Library staff members have created a large display of both new and classic holiday books. This multicultural collection features stories, craft ideas and background reading on winter celebrations from around the world, with various ethnic and religious observations.

From Dr. Seuss's Grinch to Raymond Briggs Snowman, the books in this display will delight children of all ages.

Preschool story hours continue on Thursday afternoons and Friday mornings. Preregistration is not required for these drop-in programs. However, participants do need to register in advance for a color coded story hour based on age groups. Parents are asked to fill out a short form, and present proof of residency and proof of the child's age. Acceptable proofs of age include a birth certificate or medical/insurance card with the child's name and date of birth. Applications for story hour cards can be filled out anytime during normal library hours. Additional information concerning this procedure is available in the children's room.

Two book discussion groups meet monthly, one for children in the third and fourth grades, and the second for fifth and sixth graders. Multiple copies of the books that will be discussed are available in the children's room.

For more information, call the library at 640-4490, or stop by the Children's Room for a listing of upcoming events.

Volunteers needed to help seniors

LAWRENCE - Elder services needs volunteers to help elders in local communities with: food shopping, balancing a checkbook, helping nursing home residents address their concerns. Computer instructors are needed for SeniorNet Computer Lab. Call 1-800-892-0890, 463.

Gift-giving programs back

WILMINGTON - The holiday season has arrived. Everyone is running to get their shopping done and cards out to loved ones. The center is also very excited getting ready for the holidays. We are also fortunate to have our two special gift-giving programs back this month.

The first program is our third annual "Giving Tree." This year the Cub Scout Pack 56 will be setting up our special tree that will hold written ornaments stating needed gifts for the seniors of Wilmington. This tree will give the community the opportunity to help other people in our own community. Feel free to go down and take an ornament off the tree and once you buy the item (for example, holiday plant, scarf and mittens, gift certificate to local grocery store, stamps) you take it back to the center wrapped for the holiday. This gift is personally delivered to bring a bit of holiday cheer to Wilmington Seniors.

If you know anyone who could benefit from this program, please call the center at 657-7595. There are no names given out to the public, everything is highly confidential.

The second program is "Toys for Tots." We are very happy to help the West Real Estate collect toys for this program. There is a box in our lobby to collect new, unwrapped toys for all children. Feel free to go down any time to take a bit of happiness to children for the holiday. Toys will be picked up on a weekly basis.

I would also like to take the opportunity to thank everyone who made this year's Holiday Fair such a success. On November 18, the center was extremely busy, from buying beautiful crafts, knit goods, woodwork, dolls and baked goods. The kitchen was also very busy. Everyone seemed to have lots of fun. This would not have been such a success without the help of so many. Thanks again to everyone. Also here are the winners of the raffle:

Cathy Bradley, $500.

Mary Lipski, $250.

Mary DelNinno, $150.

Ruth Campos, $100.

Congratulations to all the winners!

I want to personally wish every-

Advocate, don't procrastinate

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Advocating for yourself in a medical situation can be a very important part of a successful and less invasive treatment.

Advocacy is very simple. It means that should the patient not feel uncomfortable with the treatment that a doctor is giving, then the patient should either ask more questions of the doctor or seek a second opinion.

The age of the internet has made it easier for the average person to seek knowledge of what might or might not be wrong. There are many chat rooms, and medical websites to help inform the patient of the proper questions to ask their medical care-givers.

However, one important item is that the websites and other information sources are just guidelines. They are not able to provide a complete diagnosis or full answers to questions because not all of the information is known.

That is why a doctor is necessary in the first place. However, in today's medical world, many doctors tend to have specialties and although they can give good advice, they might not have the proper experience to go along with their medical training or that training might not be extensive enough.

Thus, the need for the patient to arm themselves with the proper information.

Patients need to be aware of the medicines they take and how they react to them. One case that presented itself with a dry cough and eventual loss of voice, turned out to be a simple allergic reaction to a new blood pressure medication.

The patient discovered the cause by accident, after several trips to the doctor, when he ran out of the medication temporarily and noticed that the cough started to clear up. Once he started in on the medication again the cough soon returned.

When the facts were reported to the primary care doctor a new blood pressure medication was prescribed and all was well.

In one case, that started just about one-year ago, the patient was diagnosed as having pneumonia or bronchitis. She was given the proper antibiotics to treat these diseases, but the symptoms kept getting worse.

The primary care giver, who practices in Portland, Maine did not probe deep enough and in January, the patient's friends finally rushed her to Central Maine Medical Center after the patient suffered from a coughing spell that drew blood.

Medical Advocacy to S-4

A LARYNGECTOMY, removal of the larynx or voice box, is often performed after a failed previous diagnosis or where a second opinion was not sought. The patient then uses an electrolarynx to project his speech (graphic by Inhealth Technologies)

Stoneham Historical Society Open House December 10

The Stoneham Historical Society Holiday Open House is planned for Sunday, December 10 from 2-4 at the Museum on 36 William Street (across from the Central Elementary School), Stoneham. This is an excellent opportunity for members and the general public who might not be able to attend evening meetings to participate. Light refreshments will be served and warm informal fellowship of the season is guaranteed.

The Stoneham Historical Society is a nonprofit organization dedicated to "Pride in our past; Faith in our Future" since 1922. Questions about the Open House or upcoming programs may be directed to Mary K. Marchant at 781-438-4185 or Bee Russo at 781-438-9488.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

With time enough to celebrate the season in Reading

"The appointment of the Reverend Sarah J. Mount as Associate Pastor of Old South United Methodist Church was celebrated on Sunday, October 1 with the Rev. Aida Irizarry-Fernandez, Superintendent of the Metropolitan North District preaching," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Rev. Mount was appointed to Old South on July 1, 2000 succeeding the Rev. Jean Russo-Parks. Ms. Mount had previously served as pastor of Broadway United Methodist Church in Lynn. Prior to her ordination as a Deacon in 1998 she graduated from Duke Divinity School in Durham, North Carolina. She is a graduate of Hampshire College. She grew up in Syracuse, New York, the granddaughter of a Methodist preacher. She is a certified pre-school teacher. Ms. Mount is active in Camp Farthest Out, an ecumenical spiritual renewal movement.

"The service included greetings from the Reading Clergy Association and the Town of Reading, as well as words of welcome and prayers of blessing by leaders of the local congregation. A reception in the church vestry followed the service of celebration."

With 'Authority' in Burlington

"A woman with 13 years' experience in the field is the

Welcoming moments, welcome news town's new executive director of the Housing Authority," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Litchfield, N.H., resident Rina Petit has been on the job since late spring.

"Among all the candidates, not only was she (Petit) very well qualified, but she was willing to work for the little amount of money we pay (the salary is determined by the commonwealth)," said Housing Authority member Joseph Arena, interviewed by telephone.

"For the previous eight months, the town did not have an executive director. The position was run by two consultants along with the authority.

"I love everything about Burlington," said Petit. "It is a well-run community with a beautiful municipal office complex. The area is well kept up."

"Petit also said she sees a 'dedicated' Housing Authority in the town, and that the Birchcrest Arms tenants 'extended a warm welcome to me'.

"Her previous position was Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program coordinator for the town of Methuen.

"She explained that Methuen is 'partially an entitlement community' with regard to its housing, and that annually it would receive a $600,000 grant from the commonwealth.

"Petit would oversee how the money was allotted with regard to bringing housing up to state sanitary code and other projects. She also spent time working with tenants."

With wishes granted in Lynnfield

"By a four percent margin, Lynnfield has qualified to continue the grant application process for $600,000 in state funds toward the renovation of the Senior Center," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"In order to be eligible to be considered for funding, a minimum of 51 percent of Lynnfield's residents aged 62 and older were required to meet low and moderate income levels.

"A confidential telephone survey was recently completed and according to the grant writers, the survey revealed 55.07 percent of residents are 62 and older.

Medical advocacy

From S-1

She was diagnosed with esophageal cancer and because of the delay in the proper diagnosis, the prognosis was not good.

Laurie Wood (my sister-in-law) died in April. It is not known if she would have lived even if the cancer had been detected in November as it is thought that it was growing in her body for several months previous to the symptoms first making themselves known.

There are many forms of cancer in the world, some can be taken care of very easily and others are more complicated but can still be successfully treated. The key is for the patient to know their own body and to seek and advocate for the proper treatment.

Many cancers receive quite a bit of publicity, such as breast and prostate cancers and the tell-tale signs are well known. However, others, such as throat cancers, are less well known and it is these that patient must acquire more knowledge and be careful about.

Barbara Stratton of Wilmington is very familiar with the need for people to advocate for themselves. Her husband, Robert, is now living a very productive life after receiving the right information and therefore the proper medical treatment for his condition.

According to Stratton, her husband went for a year and a half trying different doctor prescribed cough medicines before finally being referred to an ear, nose and throat (ENT) specialist.

Stratton recalls "On the first visit, the doctor (Dr. Thomas Mulvaney of Winchester) examined Bob and told him to report to the hospital on the following Monday for a biopsy."

She added, "People who have a cough or sore throat that won't go away must push the (general practitioner) doctor to do testing."

The biopsy showed a malignant cancer. However it was treated with radiation and all was well for one-year. That was in 1973.

The following year a lump was discovered just outside the area of radiation and the Strattons chose to have it removed. The lump was cancerous but was successfully treated and Bob was cancer free for 18-years.

A sore throat sent Bob to the dentist who immediately recommended a trip to his oncologist. This time the cancer was found in the back of his mouth and required the removal of part of his jaw.

The treatment was good for another five years until a steady cough returned once again.

A laryngectomy, removal of the larynx or voice box, was required and a choice had to be made to provide a channel for food to go down or for breathing. A breathing channel was provided and Bob now eats with the help of gravity. Stratton notes that her husband must be sitting up straight to take food and make sure all of it goes down.

She noted that many laryngectomees, the person who has undergone the procedure, start out much the same way her husband did with a series of radiation and chemotherapy treatments before the laryngectomy is performed.

When he was contacted Dr. Mulvaney noted that one common thread is prevalent in laryngectomees, they are almost always people who drank and smoked heavily.

"Hoarseness with that background is more indicative than without it," Mulvaney said.

Bob has now been two years cancer free and Barbara reports

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: What NHL player won eight straight MVP awards? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

READING'S RYAN KILEY leads all scorers on the Merrimack College men's ice hockey team after scoring his ninth goal of the year in a 7-3 loss to Providence College over the weekend.

NORTH READING HIGH SCHOOL will hold its annual Vin Olivo Boys Basketball Jamboree on Saturday, December 9. North Reading High School is located on Route 62, Park Street. The Jamboree begins at 5:15 pm, and six games, each one half in duration, will be played.

The jamboree is named in memory of Vin Olivo, North Reading basketball coach from 1960 to 1972, who passed away in August, 1992. The event includes 12 teams involving seven different leagues and provides a head start for the 2000-2001 basketball season.

The match-ups and times are as follows:

5:15 pm Triton vs. Ipswich
5:55 pm Hamilton-Wenham vs. Chelsea

6:35 pm Pentucket vs. Pope John

7:15 pm Georgetown vs. Austin Prep

7:55 pm Lynnfield vs. Dom Savio

8:35 pm North Reading vs. Reading.

NORTH READING'S KEVIN HERRICK, a fullback on the men's soccer team at Messiah College in Grantham, PA, helped his team beat Rowan University 2-0 for the National Championship for the Division 3 Men's Soccer in New Jersey.

Herrick went to high school at Lexington Christian Academy.

The Boston Sports Club at the Colonial is offering group Swim Lessons for children ages six months to 14 years and of all abilities. The next seven week session of swim lessons will begin January 8. Registration for members begins December 11, and for non-members December 14 after 10 am. Classes are offered four mornings and five afternoons a week. Space is limited and filled on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information, call the club at 781-246-7500 and ask for Patti. Adult swim lessons begin the same week, and run for four weeks.

Need some clues to help out with the above-mentioned trivia question? The player won the awards from 1980 to 1987.

The ALPENHOF SKI CLUB invites new members to apply for membership. Membership is open to skiing youth in Stoneham and the surrounding towns. In order to join, you must be present with a parent at this meeting. Your parent must sign your membership application and supply your health insurance number for emergency use. Your parent must sign your membership application and supply your health insurance number for emergency use. Membership in the club is open to anyone in grades 7 through 12 in any local school. Stoneham, Melrose, Reading and Wakefield are a few of the towns represented in the club. The club is open to skiers only, and snow boarders are not allowed to participate in club activities.

Nominations are now being accepted until December 31 for athletes to be inducted into the Winchester Hall of Fame. To be nominated, candidates must have been graduated for at least 10 years and receive the support, in writing, of five former or current residents of Winchester. Packaged nominations should be sent to Whitney Gay, 5 North Gateway, Winchester, 01890. Call 781-729-1319 for more information.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The player was Wayne Gretzky.

DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. "Sharing is Caring"

Middlesex East Publications, in association with the Salvation Army will sponsor "M.E. Santa" this holiday season to benefit needy individuals and families in the area.

In many past years, the Salvation Army has worked quietly within the communities. But this year it is asking for assistance due to increased pressure to provide services.

Funds will be distributed locally in the M.E. communities, which include Wilmington, Tewksbury, North Reading, Lynnfield, Reading, Stoneham, Burlington, Woburn, Wakefield, Winchester.

A list of contributors will be published in Middlesex East throughout December.

Corporations and individuals are encouraged to include their names as part of their donations as efforts are made to promote the fund.

The "M.E. Santa" effort is actually part of the Salvation Army's ongoing service program. Please Help!

TRADITIONAL CAROLING AND POTLUCK DINNER

The Victorian Melrose Society will hold its traditional caroling and potluck dinner at a private Victorian home on the Melrose East Side on Sunday, December 10 at 5 pm.

Members and non-members of all ages are welcome. The Society provides a ham and hot cider. Guests bring appetizers, side dishes, salad or dessert.

Sheet music will be provided. Carolers should bring a memory or a flashlight or lantern. Duration of the carolling, which will be in the local neighborhood, will depend on the weather. Call 665-9672 for exact location and more information.

COLONIAL CHORUS TO HOLD AUDITIONS

The Colonial Chorus Players will hold open auditions for "42nd Street" at The Old Hose House at 1249 Main Street in Reading on Tuesday, December 12 and Wednesday, December 13 at 7 pm. Anyone 15 years of age or older may audition.

Musical is to be presented in April 2001. For directions or details contact producer, Tom Coffin at 781-245-1488 or visit at the website at www.colonialchorus.com.

TOWER EXCHANGE CHRISTMAS SALE

On Wednesday, December 13 from 10 am to 3 pm the Tower Exchange Thrift Shop, located in the basement of the Lynnfield Centre Congregational Church, will hold its annual pre-Christmas sale.

There is a good selection of fall and winter clothing for ladies, men and children. Many articles are at half price.

In the White Elephant section there are many items: jewelry, glassware and items both useful and decorative for holiday giving. Included, also, is an assortment of Christmas decorations.

SUPPORT GROUP HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

HOPE (Helping Other Parents

Endure) is a peer support group who have lost a baby through miscarriage, stillbirth or neonatal death that meets on the second Wednesday of each month.

On Wednesday, December 13 at 7:30 pm HOPE will hold a non-denominational Holiday Memorial Service in the Keating Conference Room, first floor at Baldwin Park I, 12 Alfred Street in Woburn.

Take the first right north off the Route 128 junction rotary. Parents, grandparents and friends are invited.

Call Rindy Huebner at 781-273-2624 for more information.

LIFELINE OFFERS A HOLIDAY SPECIAL

Winchester Hospital's Lifeline Program is offering free installation of Lifeline throughout the month of December. Lifeline is a personal response system and is there for you when others cannot be, providing the peace of mind you and your loved ones deserve. Lifeline enables the subscriber to live independently at his or her home.

With Lifeline, the subscriber is given a small, waterproof paging device to wear around the wrist or neck. By simply pressing a button, signal is sent to Lifeline Central where highly trained and caring personnel can determine what kind of help necessary. This service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Help is just a button away.

For more information about Lifeline service, or to become a subscriber, contact Joanne Artiano at 781-756-4752.

LPGA GIRLS GOLF CLUB HOLIDAY BAZAAR

The LPGA Girls Golf Club of Greater Boston announces their Holiday Bazaar to be held at the Franklin Park Clubhouse on December 16 from 10 am to 4 pm. All donations will benefit the LPGA Girls Golf Club of Greater Boston.

The LPGA Girls Golf Club of Greater Boston is a developmental junior golf program which encourages girls ages 7-17 to learn to play golf, build relationships and sample competition in a non-threatening environment.

We are inviting all vendors who want to share outstanding items, products and/or wares by purchasing either a large rectangular 8 foot table or a smaller 6 foot table. Join us for a fun filled winter's day. Bargains for your friends, neighbors, acquaintances and any other interested persons in the selection of special gifts and healthy products for Christmas.

As an extra bonus - free admission to the Franklin Park Zoo for all children who attend the Bazaar with an adult.

SEVENTH ANNUAL MESSIAH SING

On Monday, December 11 at 7:30 pm the Andover Choral Society will present its seventh annual Community Messiah Sing at the First Calvary Baptist Church, Mass. Avenue, North Andover. This annual event provides a wonderful holiday opportunity for members of the community to join together with members of the choral society in presenting, in an informal setting, the beloved Christmas sections of the Messiah along with the Hallelujah Chorus. Singers will be joined by prominent and up and coming soloists from the Boston area. Leonard Ciampa will be the organist.

Anyone with a love of Christmas's musical traditions is cordially invited, especially families. Persons having Messiah scores are encouraged to bring them, but scores will be available at the door. While there is no admission charge, $5 donation is suggested.

The Andover Choral Society is conducted by Music Director Allen Combs. Now in his eleventh season as Music Director, Combs teaches voice at Phillips Academy and maintains a busy schedule as a professional soloist.

The Society is a not-for-profit organization established more than 71 years ago by J. Everett Collins. The group is currently preparing a concert of choral works by Franz Josef Haydn to be given on January 15 at 3 pm at the First Calvary Baptist Church, North Andover.

For information on this performance or for membership details please call 978-687-8225.

MODEL RAILROAD AND TRAIN DISPLAY

Model railroads and the holiday season go hand in hand. For an extra special seasonal treat visit the Museum of Our National Heritage Saturday, December 16 and Sunday, December 17 for an impressive display of model railroading.

The HUB Division of the National Model Railroad Association will run HO-scale trains on a modular railroad layout from 10 am to 5 pm on Saturday, and Noon till 5 pm on Sunday. This year's display promises to be bigger and better than ever. Admission and parking are free.

The Museum of Our National Heritage is dedicated to presenting exhibitions on a wide variety of topics in American history and popular culture. The museum is supported by the Scottish Rite Freemasons in the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States.

The Museum of Our National Heritage is located at 33 Marrett Road in Lexington at the corner of Route 2A and Mass. Avenue. Hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 am to 5 pm and Sunday, Noon to 5 pm. Admission is free. For further information contact the Museum at 781-861-6559 or www.mnh.org.

HOLIDAY CONCERT IN WAKEFIELD

A Special Holiday Concert by solo pianist Jacqueline Schwab will be hosted by the Wakefield Unitarian Universalist Church of Wakefield, 326 Main Street at 3 pm on December 10.

Boston correspondent Scott Alarik recently wrote: "Jacqueline Schwab is one of the most immediately recognizable pianists in America, although very few people actually know who she is."

Her signature improvisations have been heard internationally on numerous television soundtracks, ranging from Ken Burns' PBS documentaries to Master Card commercials.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $7 for children. Come and relax during this busy season to sounds of "Down Came An Angel," Jacqueline's recent recording of holiday music.

LIFELINE OFFERS A HOLIDAY SPECIAL

Winchester Hospital's Lifeline Program is offering free installation of Lifeline throughout the month of December. Lifeline is a personal response system and is there for you when others cannot be, providing the peace of mind you and your loved ones deserve. Lifeline enables the subscriber to live independently at his or her home.

With Lifeline, the subscriber is given a small, waterproof paging device to wear around the wrist or neck. By simply pressing a button, a signal is sent to Lifeline Central where highly trained and caring personnel can determine what kind of help is necessary. This service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Help is just a button away.

For more information about Lifeline service, or to become a subscriber, contact Joanne Artiano at 781-756-4752.

Key facts on Assisted Living

Assisted-living facilities offer a relatively new way to care for seniors who can't manage on their own. A cross between an apartment building with services and a nursing home, these facilities offer residential units, which sometimes include a kitchen, housekeeping services, meals, transportation to doctors and activities and various levels of personal assistance all for a monthly rental fee.

The brochures for assisted-living facilities highlight independence, support and communal activities for the frail and disabled elderly, but sometimes the reality doesn't match the promotional literature.

Assisted-Living Facilities Background

Careful review is required to find a good assisted-living facility. Follow the steps outlined:

1. Decide if your relative really is a good candidate for assisted-living. Many people are not.
2. Take a realistic look at your relative's financial picture. Do some hypothetical financial projections; look ahead at least four years or maybe more to see if he or she can continue in an assisted-living facility. Consider the likely possibility of increasing frailty, increasing needs, increasing expenses and higher monthly charges. Will future income and assets cover those contingencies?

3. Carefully consider the philosophy of care given by the facility. Does the facility seem caring and concerned about your relative or are personnel more interested in keeping units filled?
4. Be sure you understand what the facility can and cannot do to accommodate your relative's increasing frailty. Will personnel help you arrange for care that is needed but that the facility does not provide?
5. Don't be swayed by a facility's fancy interior. Matching furniture and glitzy appointments don't guarantee good or even barely adequate care. Is the space functional for residents who may have different kinds of canes, walkers, and wheelchairs and abilities to navigate distances?
6. If your relative's income is low, consider Section 202 housing and put your relative's name on a waiting list at a facility in your area. It may take two or three years until a unit becomes available. Section 202 of the 1959 Housing Act dictates a mix of financial arrangements. The federal government may directly subsidize tenants; in others, residents are simply given vouchers to pay the rent. Many of these units are operated by not-for-profit owners such as religious organizations, but some owners operate them to make a profit.

7. Consider board-and-care homes in your community and make several visits to them. Ask the state or local agency that regulates them if there have been any problems and if so, what kind?
8. What will assisted-living add to the quality of your relative's life? Will it really provide more camaraderie, activity and support, or is it just providing you with expensive peace of mind knowing he or she is not alone?

ASSISTED LIVING KEY FACTS:

- Today, nearly 500,000 people live in places loosely called assisted-living facilities, where the average age is 84.
- Nearly 95% of the 500,000 residents in assisted-living facilities pay for care out of their own funds. Medicare does pay for some skilled care if a relative meets the requirements for the Medicare home health benefit, but funds are usually paid for by family, friends and state agencies.

Spotlight on Seniors

- Over the next 20 years, the number of people who will need help with activities of daily living is projected to increase by 51%.

- 37 states pay for care in assisted-living facilities through Medicaid, but a relative must be poor or become poor by spending down assets to qualify.

- Long-term care can cost far more than $1000 a month. The average nursing home costs upwards of $3,000 a month. Adults day care can run $3,000 to $4,000 each month, and assisted-living facilities can cost as much or more, depending on additional services needed.

- About 36% of all residents eventually go to nursing homes because the assisted-living facility cannot accommodate their increasing needs, and 2% go to nursing homes because they have exhausted the means to pay for care. It's possible to use up the entire pool of money from long-term care insurance on an assisted-living facility and have nothing left when the time comes for nursing home care.
- You will have to keep a careful watch over a relative in an assisted-living facility to make sure that they have a stimulating, safe, healthy living environment. Finding the right facility will take several visits and interviews with the staff.

Hypnotherapy may help with your pains

Hypnotherapy is gaining momentum as a useful tool to manage stress and chronic pain. Ted Benton, a hypnotherapist at Winchester Hospital's Community Health Institute, draws from more than seven years of experience to offer his patients personalized help that has proven success.

Benton's conventional hypnotherapy involves working with patients suffering from chronic pain, helping people lose weight and quit smoking, and assisting those with a wide range of phobias. For the past five years, Benton has also been involved in hypno-birthing, a technique that assists women manage pain during childbirth.

Benton specializes in the treatment of children between age five and those in their teens.

He has completed advanced training with the American Psychological Association, most recently at workshops on hypnotherapy and habit control. He is an active member of the American Board of Hypnotherapy and the American Academy of Medical Hypnoanalysts. He recently spoke at the national convention for the National Guild of Hypnotists about practicing hypnosis in a hospital environment.

For more information about how hypnotherapy might help you, please call the Community Health Institute at 781-756-4707.

material to a story that many find near and dear to their hearts.

Jim Carrey, the man of 1,000 faces, covers his with makeup to transform into the Grinch, a miserly cantankerous fellow who lives on Mt. Crumpit, which overlooks the town of Whoville. The residents of the town, the Whos, know how to celebrate the holidays - especially Christmas, which is why the Grinch, He sets out to make sure that Christmas doesn't come this year, while little Cindy Loo Who sets out to prove to the world that there is still some good in the Grinch's heart, which is about too sizes too small.

Carrey is wonderful as the Grinch, and the visuals bring the pages of the Dr. Seuss class to vivid life. But Howard tries to bring too much of himself to the storyline, including trying to explain why the Grinch is so Grinchy (he was spited by other children when he was young). He should have stuck to the original story, which has become a holiday favorite for several generations.

MOVIE: "THE LEGEND OF BAGGER VANCE"
GRADE: ***

Review: Robert Redford has created another gem in this story of a golfer who has lost his way.

Matt Damon stars as a former top golfer who can't find his game, due to booze and traveling down the wrong road in life. Along comes Bagger Vance, a mysterious caddy played by Will Smith, who helps him turn around his game, as well as his life.

Both Smith and Damon turn in strong performances, along with Charlize Theron as a woman from the golfer's past, and Redford once again displays a knack for weaving a strong storyline with stunning visuals.

"Assistant Superintendent John Quinn said that when he became aware of the copier issue, he researched funding for it. Several positions that were scheduled to be filled during the year happened much later than expected, and some of the salary funds for those positions became available...."

MOVIE REVIEWS

"Rugrats in Paris"

BY PAUL FEELY

MOVIE: "RUGRATS IN PARIS"
GRADE: ***

Review: Those lovable munchkins are back, as they trek across the Atlantic in search of a Mom for Chuckie.

Tommy, Chuckie, Phil and Lil, and the rest of the gang are all back again, and the pals get together in the city of love to help Chuckie's dad find a significant other, thereby fulfilling Chuckie's one true wish. But an evil woman, who needs a family to receive a promotion at work, decides to try and take advantage of the situation, so it's up to our half-pint heroes to save the day again.

The kids will love it, and there are enough inside jokes to keep adults laughing as well.

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "THE SIXTH DAY"
GRADE: ***

Review: After several flops at the box office, Arnold Schwarzenegger stars in his best film in years in this tale of cloning gone bad.

"Ah-nold" plays the owner of an extreme tour company in the very near future, when cloning of dead pets is allowed, even profitable, but human cloning is outlawed.

His character becomes caught up in the assassination plot of a Bill Gates-type billionaire, played by Tony Goldwyn, and is cloned without his permission. He sees his double, and begins a war on the company that created it to get his identity, and family, back.

The film resembles an earlier Schwarzenegger hit, "Total Recall", and returns to the fun of his earlier action films, complete with a signature 'tag' line. The effects are good, the stunts are average, and the plot line is more interesting than most science fiction films that have come along lately.

MOVIE: "THE GRINCH"

Review: Director Ron Howard has created a film that is destined to be a holiday classic for year's to come, but he tries to bring too much original

My sister Maureen told her husband Kevin, "help Johnny with his MATH homework while you can, next year he goes in the fifth grade."

Folks when life hands you a lemon there's only one thing to do, "MAKE LEMONADE!"

Folks, I bought a suit with two pairs of pants and I burned a "HOLE" in the COAT. I came home from work and I asked Tommy, "what are you mad about?" "Well," he said, "if you must know, I had an argument with your wife."

Sometime I should take W.C. Fields advice, "If at first you don't succeed, TRY, TRY again."

I remember at my niece Christine's wedding reception I went down to the Head Table for another helping of ice cream and cake. I got half way back to my table when Kathy shouted "why you IDIOT! This is the fourth time you have gone for ice cream and cake. I suppose when you finish that, you will go again?" "Of course I will," I said, "I keep telling them that I'm getting the ice cream and cake for YOU!"

A dentist's Car generally has two plates an upper and lower plate.

Folks, I found out the hard way that the most "yes," the very most important part of a wedding reception is the seating arrangement. We made the mistake of seating Aunt Nora at the same table with Uncle Mario. "WOW!" So folks, find out who isn't talking to whom etc.

I told Blackie Vega, "Liquor will never WASH away your troubles it will only IRRIGATE THEM."

Beauty is more important to a woman than intelligence because men have better eyesight than BRAINS.

FOLKS, an educated heart is something you have if you know how to bring a little happiness to someone else's life and YOU do it. It means you know something wonderful to say about someone and, YOU say it. If YOU can do that, what a wonderful person YOU must be.

Richie Gillis wears two pairs of pants when he goes golfing, in case he gets a HOLE in ONE.

BARK!" They showed me the office door saying, "Just stick to writing WOODCHIPS."

Kathy gave up Golf and now goes Bowling. She's doing great, a lot better than golf. She hasn't LOST A BALL yet.

People are bragging that Senator Tom Birmingham made a speech in Italian. "So what?" Tom is a Rhodes Scholar.

My cousin Angelo only went to the 8th grade and he knows 7 tongues. He worked in Shapiro's Delicatessen in Chelsea for 10 years. Tony and Dolores Zankowski have a wonderful, HONEYDEW marriage. Day after day Dolores tells Tony, "Honey do this and, Honey do that."

This Week...
Wilmington

Beautiful in Wilmington

Would you like to own a new home? Sure you would. A new home doesn't need expensive repairs and upgrades like that 50-year-old house. Walls don't need to be painted, and floors don't need refinishing. Plumbing fixtures don't need to be replaced, and the roof is good for 25-30 years.

But have you been looking at new construction? Floor plans are all for large houses and building lots in desirable neighborhoods are expensive. There is also the possibly lengthy and detail-laden process involved in new construction. Do you have any alternatives?

Take a look at this less than two-year-old 3 or 4 bedroom custom built Colonial in Wilmington offering excellent curb appeal.

Set on a cul-de-sac and convenient to Rt. 93, this home is in better than new condition. The list of upgrades from original specs include: hardwood floors in the foyer, ceramic tile in the kitchen, walk up attic, two dormers in the attic, sprinkler and security systems, whirlpool tub in the master bath, and French doors between the living room and dining room.

The large (14 x 20) eat-in kitchen features oak cabinets, Americast porcelain sink, gas range, dishwasher, microwave with recirculating fan, and space for an oversize refrigerator. There are recessed lights above the sink and over the counter tops, all on dimmer switches.

There is also a variable speed ceiling fan in the center of the room. The hinged double doors open onto a large deck overlooking wooded conservation land.

The family room (14 x 14) has wall-to-wall carpet and a wood-burning fireplace with marble hearth. The formal dining room and the living room are both 14 x 14. There are two double hung windows overlooking the conservation land in the dining room. The foyer has a double wide coat closet and leads back to the 1/2 bath on the first floor.

The second floor contains the 3 bedrooms plus a study (original plans were for this to be a bedroom, but the closet was removed in order to add the walk-up attic), and two full baths. The master suite has a full bath with a whirlpool tub, and a walk in closet. The size of the bedroom itself is 14 x 18. The second and third bedrooms are also large at 14 x 14 and 12 x 14. The upstairs is wall-to-wall carpeted.

The basement is unfinished, but insulated. There is also a two-car garage under, with garage door openers for each door. The exterior is professionally landscaped, with a Boston Paver walkway and a charming lamppost at the sidewalk. All utilities are underground.

This beautiful home is being offered at $439,900 by Don Truitt at Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil and can be seen by calling 978-664-1094 or 781-944-2100.

This wood burning fireplace in the family room has a wonderful marble hearth.

THIS CUSTOM COLONIAL BOASTS hardwood floors, ceramic tile, and a walk-up attic. Set on a cul-de-sac, this lovely 2 year old home is being listed by Don Truitt at Spindler & O'Neil.
